

LEGISLATURE TO DISCOUNT W. & A. RENTALS TO PROVIDE $1,620,000 FOR STATE INSTITUTIONS State To Push Prosecution Against Walter Taylor

'NOT DISMAYED' BY COURT ACTION, BOYKIN ASSERTS

Hopes Pinned on Two Convictions Not Involving Point Bringing Reversal, Solicitor Says.

YORK'S SENTENCE UPHELD BY COURT

Boykin Undecided on Further Action Against Ex-Councilman,
To Go to 'Gang February 15.

A declaration for continued rigor in prosecution of former City Clerk Walter C. Taylor on indictments pending against him and renewal of grand jury investigation into Taylor's operations was outlined Wednesday by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin after the court of appeals had reversed the first conviction of the former city clerk on a charge of bribery.

At the same time the prosecutor said he was undecided on further prosecution of former Councilman Harry York, whose three to four-year sentence was upheld by the appellate court and who is scheduled to begin a 12-month term on February 15.

Reindictment Sought.
Mr. Boykin said the state was pinning high hopes on two other convictions of Taylor which do not involve the point on which the reversal was granted. The first conviction, that of receiving $500 from Marvin Roane for "using his influence" to get councilmen to restore a private motor from Roane's property in West Peachtree street.

"In the cases where Taylor was convicted of having attempted to influence the grand jury, the grand jury, and receiving $400 from Mike Elliman for not enforcing a jeweler's license against Elliman, the question of Taylor's authority or official capacity are not involved as they were in the Roane matter," Mr. Boykin said. "He was convicted in the Roane matter of using his influence to influence the grand jury and the grand jury, and in the Elliman instance it was his duty to enforce the license ordinance which he did not do."

"I am doubtful," Mr. Boykin said, all that Taylor would say when informed of the high court's decision. The former city clerk said he might issue a further statement after consulting his attorneys.

Mr. Boykin said that he probably would ask the grand jury to reindict Taylor on the other two cases pending against him, one involving alleged receipt of $5,000 for settlement of a claim growing out of the viaduct construction and the other involving the taking of money to aid in bringing about selection of the present site for the new city hall.

"We are not dismayed by the Taylor reversal," the prosecutor said.
"There are many charges on which I think I can get indictments and this I'm going to try to do."

In reversing the conviction of Taylor and affirming judgment against

BOROUGH'S FISCAL PROBLEM SOLVED, OFFICIALS BELIEVE

Several Plans for Raising $1,000,000 Needed Advanced; Balanced Finances Expected Today.

Solution of Atlanta's fiscal problems, at least in so far as anticipated receipts are concerned, appeared certain Wednesday as several plans for raising the $1,000,000 needed to keep expenditures within available revenue were promulgated.

The finance committee, which has floundered more than a week in an attempt to raise the necessary funds to prevent another deficit to add to the $1,000,000 deficit, which already exists, will reconvene again this morning at 9 o'clock at the city hall, with every expectation that the January finance sheet, a catalog of disbursements for the entire year, will be balanced before the day is over.

Chief among the plans which the committee is expected to consider and adopt are the following:

Four Plans.

1. A plan advanced by Alderman
B. T. Huie, of the third ward, to discontinue allowing discounts on water bills, which it is estimated will bring the borough about $500,000 annually.

2. A suggestion of Mayor James L.
Key that all borough employees be asked to take two weeks' vacation without pay in lieu of their salaries to donate a month's pay to the treasury. The new plan is equivalent to a 4 per cent cut in salary for this year, and will place approximately $250,000 in the treasury.

3. Another proposal by Mayor Key to anticipate $150,000 from an increase in water rates, after the plan is approved by the Georgia legislature. He is certain the legislature will allow the hike of about 50 per cent in the water rates.

4. A decision of the tax committee Wednesday afternoon to discontinue allowing any discounts for hospitals, charities, clubs or other organizations strictly charitable. This last measure is designed to bring about $300,000 annually into the borough coffers, and was taken on advice of City Attorney James L. Mayson.

The total savings and expected revenue from these sources is estimated at $830,000, but the police department already has agreed to cut its expenditures at least $50,000 and other departments are expected to do likewise.

Mr. Key and members of the finance committee held a conference Wednesday afternoon and were continued in Page 6, Column 3.

SENATE STRIKES FOOD LOAN CLAUSE FROM DROUTH BILL

Robinson Threatens Extra Session If $25,000-000 Isn't Taken From Treasury for Relief.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—
The emergency appropriation of $45-000,000 for seed loans to drought-stricken farmers was finally approved today by congress but in its wake arose a new dispute over relief legislation.

Senate democrats proposed a direct appropriation from the treasury of $25,000,000 for the Red Cross to administer relief and threatened an extra session of congress to get it.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, offered the $25-000,000 relief proposal as the miserere party yielded to the insistence of the administration-controlled house for elimination from the drought relief measure of the $15,000,000 food loan provision sponsored by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas.

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, joined Robinson in offering the new proposal as an amendment to the pending agriculture appropriation bill.
A two-thirds vote will be necessary to add the unauthorized fund to the supply measure, but Robinson is confident of the votes.

The $45,000,000 measure sent to President Hoover tonight after the senate receded from amendments in dispute with the house is for loans for the farmers to put in this year's crops.
It becomes available immediately.

During a long day of debate, democratic republics charged independence in the senate bitterly assailed the administration.

Miss De Boe also appeared on the stand to testify Blaney Matthews, district attorney's investigator, had threatened to prosecute her on "forty or fifty counts if she did not come through with all she knows." Matthews denied the charge.

Testimony in the case in which Miss De Boe, discharged secretary of the actress, is charged with theft of $16,000 from her employer, continued to center about alleged activities of the "It" girl.

Wilson Impresses General Pershing On First Meeting

"But in Difficult Situations Later Regarding Manner of Aiding Allies Wilson Was Inclined to Yield to Importunities of Allied Representatives"—General Sails on Baltic —Received by King George—Admiral Sims Dissatisfied With Home Support.

BY GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.
CHAPTER IV.

(Copyright, 1931, in All Countries by the North American Newspaper Alliance. World Rights Reserved. Including Scandinavian. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited.)

My first and only meeting with President Wilson until after the armistice occurred May 24, 1917, when I called on him with Secretary of War Baker. After some conversation with Mr. Baker on shipping, Mr.
Wilson turned to me.

"General, we are giving you some very difficult tasks these days," said the president.

"Perhaps so," I replied, "but that is what we are trained to expect, Mr. President."

The president then mentioned my experience in Mexico and inquired about my acquaintance with France. I had expected him to say something about the part our army should play in the war, but he said nothing.

Upon leaving, I said: "Mr. President, I appreciate the honor you have conferred upon me by the assignment you have given me, and I realize the responsibilities it entails, but you can count upon the best that is in me."

To this, the president replied:
"General, you were chosen entirely upon your record, and I have every confidence that you will succeed; you shall have my full support."

The president then asked me to convey to the king of Great Britain and to the president of France his greetings and best wishes. His manner was cordial and simple, and I was impressed with his poise and his air of determination.

His assurance of confidence in me was gratifying, but in the difficult situations that arose later regarding the manner of aiding the allies, he was inclined to yield to the persistent importunities of the allied representatives in Washington.

In the actual conduct of operations I was given entire freedom, and in this respect was to enjoy an experience unique in the history of American wars.

May 27, 1917, the day before I was to sail from New York, Secretary Baker sent me a letter of instructions concerning my command, authorities and duties in Europe, which is quoted in full:
The president directs me to communicate to you the following:

1. The president designates you to command all the land forces of the United States operating in continental Europe

NEW GRADY BOARD TO SEEK REMEDIES FOR HOSPITAL ILLS

Careful Diagnosis Planned To Improve Morale and Restore Confidence.
Dobbs Named Chairman.

Painstaking diagnosis of the ills of Grady hospital will be made immediately with a view of correcting them for the purpose of re-establishing the confidence of the public, it was declared Wednesday night at the initial meeting of the board of trustees, of which Samuel C. Dobbs was named chairman and W. Eugene Harrington, vice chairman.

As the first step in the diagnosing process, the board voted to request the American Hospital Association, of Chicago, to conduct a minute survey of the institution; the first move in re-establishing staff morale will be taken Friday night at 7 o'clock when members of the various executive committees of the staffs will be invited to a dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The feature of the session were conclusions reached by Mr. Harrington and John E. Smith, both former foremen of grand juries which investigated conditions at Grady, and were summed up as follows:

1. Keep Grady out of the press in unfavorable publicity to restore morale of the staffs and re-establish confidence of the public.

2. Eliminate jealousies and discord between various units through establishment of good will, or, if necessary, by delivering ultimatums to doctors and other units, either on petty bickerings will not be tolerated.

3. A complete and personal investigation of Grady by members of the committee, which then will take whatever steps are necessary to remedy defects.

Warning committee members that some changes must be made, and declaring that the sooner some are brought about the better for the institution, Mr. Dobbs assumed the post as chairman.

"We as well take the dose now, because we must do it later," Mr. Dobbs said, in commenting on the necessity
"for some house cleaning."

None of the members of the committee would take any definite step Wednesday night in any administrative matters, but it was indicated that in the very near future drastic changes may be suggested.

Mr. Harrington was named chairman of a committee to review the requests which the administrative staff

GEORGIA SHIVERS AS MERCURY DIVES TOWARD 15 MARK

No Relief From Frigidity Promised Before Saturday or Sunday by Forecaster von Herrmann.

An icy blast from the north that sent thermometers nose-diving to levels far below the freezing mark Wednesday night held forth in Atlanta and the rest of Georgia, with little prospect for moderation today or Friday.
The low record for the winter was predicted for this morning, when the 15-degree mark was expected.

Beginning shortly after midnight
Wednesday morning, the temperatures recorded by the local weather bureau showed a steady decline, starting at that time at a reading of 36 degrees, and ranging downward, with slight variations, until the 15-degree calibration was reached. At 4 o'clock Wednesday morning 32 degrees was recorded;
and a gradual decrease set in, reaching 21 degrees at 9 a. m. That mark was maintained until shortly after noon, when a slow rise was noted, reaching its peak of 30 degrees at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

With the setting of the sun frigid conditions became more acute, and the temperatures dropped rapidly.

Little relief was expected before
Saturday or Sunday, according to C.
F. von Herrmann, local observer. Temperature modifications in the intense cold may be expected during the sunnier portion of today and Friday, but low temperatures will be the order of the day through Friday or Saturday,
and a gradual decrease set in, reaching at which time it is expected that Atlanta will experience less severe weather. Sunday, however, Mr. von Herrmann said, temperatures probably will give for low marks, at

GEORGIAN SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE

COCHRAN, Ga., Jan. 14.—(AP)—
L. S. Phillips, bank director, was shot to death and J. F. Abney, another local businessman, was seriously wounded in a gun battle here today.

Officers said the men met in the office of the Bleckley Cotton Warehouse Company, of which Abney is manager, and drew pistols and fired following an argument.

Phillips died an hour and a half later. Abney was taken to a hospital in Macon, where his condition was reported critical.

The argument, police said they were informed, was over the recent closing in Macon of the Luther Williams Bank & Trust Company. Abney is the father of Guyton Abney, assistant cashier of the closed bank.

Phillips is a director of the State Bank of Cochran. Abney was said in the Macon hospital to have suffered a wound in the lung.

Phillips was 43 years of age, and Abney's age was given as 37.

Clara Bow's 'Love Life' Bared By Accused Former Employee

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—(AP)— Clara Bow, the "It" girl of the movies, was described as "being drunk, very drunk," in an asserted confession of Daisy De Boe, ex-secretary to the film actress, read here today in the latter's trial for grand theft.

The De Boe statement also told how the former secretary, before her discharge, destroyed love letters written to actress by Harry Richmond, an actor; Dr. Earl Pierson, of Dallas, and Gary Cooper, also an actor.
"I burned love letters because I wouldn't have them lying around the house. That is how Clara gets into trouble, so I took the liberty of burning them," the alleged statement said.

Miss Bow was not in court during the reading of the confession by Miss Dorothy Adams, a stenographer.

Miss De Boe also appeared on the stand to testify Blaney Matthews, district attorney's investigator, had

Son of Georgian Wins Death Race In Airplane Trip From California

ELBERTON, Ga., Jan. 14.—W. O. Jones, 70, died at his home here Wednesday after his son, Henry Jones, racing with death by airplane from California, reached his bedside before the end came.

Mr. Jones was one of Elberton's most prominent citizens. He had been in ill health for some time.

The deceased was president of the Grady City bank, senior member of the firm of W. O. Jones & Company, and of the Elberton Cotton Compress Co. He had other business connections here, in Atlanta, and elsewhere.

For many years he had taken an active part in the business and civic life of the city and was president of the city board of education and had been for more than a third of a cen-jury chairman of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church.

The son, Henry Jones, by using an airplane to Atlanta, arrived here before his father's death.

W. O. Jones was the only surviving son of the late Major John H.
Jones, one of the leaders in the building of the Elberton Air Line railroad. Funeral services will be held from the residence tomorrow afternoon.

Besides the son, Henry, of California; three other children, Mrs. Tom Colley and Misses Mamie and Lady-byrd Jones, the widow and four sisters survive. The sisters are Mrs.
Ida Burch, Mrs. H. K. Gairdner, Miss Nora Jones, of Elberton, and Mrs.
Mamie Blackwell, of Detroit.

MEASURE PLANNED TO OBIATE NEED FOR RAISING TAXES

Railroad Property Returns for 1936, 1937 and 1938 Will Be Hypothe-cated Under Bill.

CUT IN EXPENSES SOUGHT FOR 1931

Effort To Be Made To Prune Institutional Appropriations; Rental Discounting Opposed.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Western & Atlantic railroad rentals for the years of 1936, 1937 and 1938, amounting in round figures to $1-620,000, will be hypothecated by the general assembly of Georgia at the special session to take care of such emergencies as the state's eleemosy-nary institutions face and all other matters will go over until the regular session meeting in June, senate and house leaders agreed Wednesday.

A bill will be drawn by Representatives Willis Battle, of Muscogee, and Marion Allen, of Baldwin, to provide for the discounting of the railroad rentals after members of the judiciary committee of both branches of the assembly and of the supreme court have been consulted about the manner of writing the measure so it will conform to provisions which bankers have said it must contain before they will buy the rentals.

Agreement to adopt the Battle-Allen plan of meeting the state's most urgent financial problems means, assembly leaders explained Wednesday, that there will be no tax-raising measures passed by the legislature and, after a committee vote of 30 to 3 against diversion of road funds, that this manner of paying "unpaid obligations" to the schools and institutions also has been abandoned.

There remains the possibility, but not a strong probability, that when the Battle-Allen bill, as rewritten, is submitted to the house ways and means committee, that an effort will be made to amend it by extending the discount for a period of 10 years and it is to this proposal that Governor Hardman has already indicated a purpose to appear before legislative committees and institution heads next Tuesday and oppose any such extension.

However, leaders also agreed Wednesday, the necessity for carefully writing the W. and A. bill along with the pruning of institutional appropriations for 1931—a new plan which has won some support in the last few days—the special session will continue for another 30 days before it completes its work on the matters Governor Hardman called it to consider.

Strong opposition to the increase of any taxes, either on luxuries, soft drinks or on public utilities, developed Wednesday afternoon as the house

LASHING OF CONVICTS KILLED IN COMMITTEE

Bill in Favor of Whip Voted Down by House Penitentiary Body.

Use of the lash or whip on Georgia convicts, outlawed by Governor Tom Hardwick, is still illegal and barbarous, so far as the house penitentiary committee is concerned.

That body Wednesday by unanimous vote decided to recommend to the house that a bill introduced by Representative C. M. Harris, of Terrell, allowing wardens to use the lash, not be passed. In answering the bill, however, the committee favored an amendment by Representative W. G. Thomas, of Wayne, providing that convicts to be whipped shall be presented at the county ordinary's office and lashed in the presence of the ordinary, justice of the peace and judge of the city or county court.

Representative Harris made a few remarks in behalf of his bill, and Representative B. Y. Dickey, of Gordon, attacked it in severe terms.

Pioneer Loses Fight Against Gas in Death

AMBOY, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)—David Doan, 75, pioneer settler, who never rode in or permitted a gasoline propelled vehicle to enter his farm, was buried yesterday after his body had been taken from his home in a motor-driven hearse.

At one time he tried to get air mail planes to take some route other than over his farm, contending that the noisy motors kept his hens from laying eggs.

INJURIES ARE FATAL TO HARRY G. BONE JR.

Harry G. Bone Jr., of Milledgeville, 21-year-old Emory student and leader in campus activities, died early Wednesday morning at Wesley Memorial hospital, the second victim of a hit-and-run driver who struck the car in which Mr. Bone and two companions were motoring to Atlanta on the night of January 4 near Lovejoy on the Dixie highway.

Mr. Bone was obliged to undergo amputation of the left leg last Wednesday and had grown steadily worse since that time.

The three youths, all members of the Kappa Alpha fraternity, were returning to Atlanta after a week-end spent at their homes in Milledgeville and Tignall when the crash occurred.

Asbury Farr, also a student at Emory, was crushed to death beneath the wreckage. Mr. Bone suffered fatal injuries, and Alton Rogers, a student at Georgia Tech, was seriously injured.

Mr. Rogers is said to be recovering at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Mr. Bone was one of the most popular students at Emory, a member of the senior class, the Emory Glee Club, secretary of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and business manager of the Emory Wheel, student publication. He was also a student instructor in chemistry, a member of the Phi Alpha Chemical Society, Phi Gamma Literary Society, the athletic council, the Emory orchestra and the Omicron Delta Kappa, national honor fraternity. He was a member of the Methodist church at Milledgeville, where his family had been prominent for many years.

Ritchie, Possible 1932 Nominee, Talks on Problems Facing U. S.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 14.—(UP)—Albert Cabell Ritchie began his fourth term as governor of Maryland today with an inaugural speech on national affairs—the views by which he will be judged as a possible democratic presidential candidate in 1932.

From this picturesque old town on the shores of the Chesapeake, Ritchie's speech went out to the nation by radio, giving all who listened an opportunity to judge a man who may play large in the party's attempt to dislodge the present administration in Washington.

Holding for states' rights and freedom for the individual, Ritchie reiterated his stand for repeal of the prohibition amendment and denounced the record of the federal government during the present economic depression.

"We believe," he said, "that the people who are least governed are the best governed. We think you cannot make people temperate by passing a prohibition law and that you cannot make industry prosperous by putting a tariff wall which drives manufacturers to other countries, so that they employ foreign labor there instead of domestic labor here."

The narrow streets of Maryland's capital were thronged during the day as visitors went from one inaugural function to another.

The stately brick governor's mansion in the center of town was jammed this afternoon with the hundreds who attended the governor's reception. Spectator looters marred the occasion by taking away most of the decorations during the confusion and crowding on the lower floor.

The inaugural address was delivered in the senate chamber of the historic statehouse, where once the continental congress met. Ritchie stood there first in 1920 to deliver his views on state and national affairs. Today he took Maryland customs as a possible example for the nation.

"We take pride in our traditions and love of freedom," he said, "and in the sanity, common sense, courage and conservatism which we inherited from our forebears."

Regarding the present economic situation Ritchie said:

"If it be true that this is a period to try men's souls, it is also one to open their eyes. If it seems incredible that so complete a collapse of prosperity and so far-reaching a breakdown in law observance have come upon us, it is equally incredible that we should have so long been blind to our political and economic mistakes which have at least contributed to this result, if they have not caused it."

"At least the country had the right to expect from that quarter economic and financial leadership which would adopt some kind of corrective measure. On the contrary, there began a series of inflationary statements and actions which incited, or at least intensified, the crash of 1929, and before the debris from that could be cleared away the federal government followed it up with unsupported and misleading statements promising an early, if not immediate, return to prosperity, which has not yet materialized."

PAPER FIRM EXPECTED TO GET LEA RECORDS

Chancellor Withholds Decision
But Indicates He Will Order Books Delivered.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Although withholding his decision pending the completion of arguments on technicalities, Chancellor W. R. Officer today indicated from the bench that the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company, which is seeking a receiver for the Tennessee Publishing Company, is justifiably in its request to see the books of the publishing company.

The board of directors of the publishing company, which operates the Nashville Tennessean and Evening Tennessean, had previously ordered its books and records removed from the custody of its secretary-treasurer and placed in the custody of its president, Colonel Luke Lea.

The technicalities concerned the question of the absence of trustees of $750,000 of bonds of the publishing company. Defense counsel contended that the trustees must be before the court before the case is properly at issue.

Why 290,000 Men Are Not Bald

KEY ASKS COUNTY FOR GRADY AID

Mayor Also Requests Fulton Assistance on $13,000,000 Sewer Project.

Mayor James L. Key personally laid his plea for $347,000 to assist in operation and expansion of Grady hospital before the board of county commissioners Wednesday, but because of the county's extremely poor financial condition met with little encouragement from members of the board.

Mayor Key also personally submitted his request for county assistance in starting the city's new $13,000,000 sewer project, asking that the county furnish labor and equipment for excavating, backfilling and similar work.

In a brief address to the board, Mayor Key outlined his plans for expansion of the hospital, asserting that he believed the county should as far as possible assist financially in the expansion program.

"Grady hospital is one of Atlanta's and Fulton county's noblest institutions," Mayor Key said. "It's work is far-reaching and it not only cares for charity patients of the city but the county as well. It is the county's duty to assist the city in its operation as far as the county is able."

Mr. Key previously had made his request to the board by letter, the letter having been received last week. "The county board feels that the work being done by Grady is one of the best ever brought to its attention but because we have no money on which to operate our own institutions we can hardly promise anything of great assistance to the city hospital," Chairman Walter C. Hendrix, speaking for the board, told Mayor Key. "We still are studying out financial problems deeply and hope to be able to do something beneficial for the hospital. At present the situation is in

LEW ADLER OBSERVES STORE ANNIVERSARY

Lew Adler is observing his 25th anniversary in the clothing business in Atlanta this month, having been within 50 feet of his present location at 113 Peachtree street all of this time.

LEW ADLER.

Mr. Adler first started south as a traveling man in 1907. He saw Atlanta for the first time as one of the outstanding cities of the south and decided then to make it his home. He traveled the entire south for a number of years, and in 1909 moved a store to the Piedmont hotel, known as 116 Peachtree street.

At that time Mr. Adler says there was no apparel store north of the viaduct. Starting as a small haberdasher, he entered to a discriminating trade and showed his merchandise as men would wear them. His taste for men's apparel was recognized by the people of Atlanta and he enjoyed a good patronage from the start.

In 1915 Mr. Adler enlarged his business, adding ready-to-wear clothing, and moved directly across the street to his present location. Mr. Adler's idea of merchandising is to handle the best grade in all commodities, and he has maintained a quality shop throughout his career. He believes that 1931 will be a good year for merchants who style correctly, serve better and maintain high standards of quality. His rules for making business good are: Keep your stock right. Treat your customers right, display your goods right, pay your bills right, advertise right, treat your employees right, keep your health right, tend to business every minute of the day, and know your business right.

Mr. Adler's experience as a clothing man dates back to his boyhood days. He was educated as a designer and tailor by his father, who was considered one of the best tailors in Philadelphia for 40 years. Mr. Adler has been recognized throughout the entire south as an authority on correct apparel for men and was president of the Retail Clothiers and Furriers Association for three years, and has always enjoyed a good reputation with merchants throughout the United States.

FURTHER DELAY SEEN IN PROHIBITION REPORT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The prohibition report remained in the hands of the law enforcement commission tonight, with the prospects of its immediate submission to President Hoover apparently having struck another temporary snag.

Neither at the White House nor commission headquarters was any definite indication given that the report would be submitted to the president tomorrow. It was acknowledged to be virtually completed, however, and the possibility remained that it might leave the commission shortly.

Arriving at commission headquarters this morning Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, put the finishing touches on his opinion. This will be attached to the full report along with the opinions of the other 10 members.

BONUS ACCOUNTING MOVE GAINS IMPETUS

Bethlehem May Face Job of Baring Profit-Sharing Items.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation and 13 officers and directors were ordered today to show cause January 27 why they should not give an accounting for payment of bonuses totalling $36,493,668.

The records show, it is claimed, that of this amount Eugene V. Grace, with an annual salary of $12,000 a year, received $5,431,684 in bonuses from January 1, 1925, to June 30, 1930, and that from 1911 to 1930, bonuses were paid every year, although in 10 of the 20 years no dividends were paid on the common stock.

Mr. Grace is Bethlehem's president. The order, sought by four stockholders who ask a refund of any part of the bonus total found excessive, was signed by Vice Chancellor Backus. A request for an injunction restraining the company from making any further bonus payments pending settlement of the suit, was denied. The complainants said they only learned of the bonus payments last summer from testimony in trial of a suit to prevent a merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Corporation.

SCHWAB MAKES DEFENSE OF PROFIT-SHARING PLAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Aroused by the court attack upon the profit-sharing system of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board, today assumed full responsibility for the plan's administration.

The 60-year-old chairman of the corporation, who built it into the second largest unit in the steel industry, issued a statement vigorously defending the profit-sharing plan which has been attacked in a suit brought in a Newark, N. J., court by stockholders who demand an accounting of the payment of bonuses totalling $36,493,668.

He said it was well known that the system had been approved by Bethlehem stockholders and with their consent the order, sought by four stockholders who ask a refund of any part of

to him. The responsibility for it, he said "is entirely mine."

"I have never personally participated in the distributions under the system so that I might be entirely free from all possible prejudice in fixing the relative participations of the men who were to be compensated through the system for their efforts," he said.

"I cannot state too strongly my firm belief that the Bethlehem profit-sharing system has resulted to its great advantage and I shall gladly defend it with any stockholders who may question its propriety in any respect."

Mr. Schwab referred to the system as having been originated by the late Andrew Carnegie, in whose employ he got his start.

KEY IS MAPPING WARD CUT PLANS

Mayor Studies Details of Several Reduction Proposals.

Mayor James L. Key announced Wednesday that he is preparing maps and details of several proposals to reduce the 15 wards of Atlanta to six in compliance with a referendum of the Atlanta electorate.

R. W. Forras, engineer-secretary of the borough planning commission, was at work on a large map which will divide the borough into population districts. From this map, council is expected to work out a plan for the ward lines.

Atlantans voted overwhelmingly for the six-ward plan, advocated by Mayor Key, in the December 3 general election. The matter will go to the Georgia legislature at its next session for approval of that body.

In addition to slashing the wards, the change also will reduce council from a body of 39 men to 18. All members of the Georgia assembly have declared they will abide by the will of the people as expressed at the polls and will champion the ward reduction plan.

Council is the logical body to make the ward division lines, it was pointed out Wednesday at the city hall. Observers declared that members of the legislature could prevent becoming entangled in any controversy which might arise, by presenting the measure to the legislature with a proviso empowering council to establish the new ward lines or by calling on council to set them. If such a procedure were followed, it would obviate the necessity of any member of the assembly from incurring the disfavor of anyone, it was stated.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Terry Druggan, erstwhile millionaire beer peddler, bounced into jail today—and bounced right out again.

Municipal Judge John H. Lyle sentenced the Beau Brummel bootlegger to jail for a year on a contempt charge, refused bail pending an appeal and ordered him locked up at once. Druggan's attorneys immediately secured a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Joseph Burke, who ruled that granting of bond pending appeal was mandatory and released the "public enemy" on $5,000 bail.

LUCAS ANSWERS SMITH ON APOLOGY DEMAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(UP)—The request of Alfred E. Smith for an apology from the republican national committee was answered in belittling fashion tonight by Robert H. Lucas, the committee's executive director.

Lucas said he would admit owing Smith an apology "if the governor will state that he has done a complete about-face since 1928 and is now for prohibition."

It was Lucas who caused distribution of a cartoon of a barroom labeled "Al Smith-Raskob idea of happiness" during Lucas' secret campaign last fall against Senator George W. Norris, republican, Nebraska. Smith, presidential candidate in 1928, asked an apology on the ground the cartoon was based upon a hoax attributing to him a statement he had not made.

Lucas countered with a suggestion that Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, apologize to the American people for "an organized campaign to misrepresent and smear the president of the United States."

His new term gives Judge Broyles the distinction of having the longest service in the history of the court as chief judge, as well as the longest service on the appellate bench.

Campaign Is Launched Here Against Mob Law in State

Women's Association and Interracial Group Hold Separate Meetings and Condemn Georgia Lynchings.

Vigorous condemnation of lynching and insistence of methods by which mob law may be eliminated in Georgia formed the theme of two separate meetings here Wednesday—one by the Georgia Association of Women for the Prevention of Lynching, and the other by the Georgia Interracial Commission, which held its annual session at the Y. M. C. A. At each meeting, leaders explored the record of six lynchings during 1930 set by Georgia, and expressed the conviction that mob law vengeance does not directly or indirectly typify the sentiments of law-abiding Georgians.

The meeting of the women was held at the Piedmont hotel and was attended by leaders from several sections of the state, while several other women were represented by proxy. The Georgia Association of Women for the Prevention of Lynching is affiliated with the recently organized Anti-Lynching Association of Women of the Southern States, which was established in Atlanta in November.

A resolution denouncing lynching as a protection to the womanhood of the south was adopted, and, among other things, it expressed indignation at the 1930 lynchings perpetrated in the state. As citizens accepting a share of the responsibility for mob law activities, the resolution condemned the practice and pledged the members to "do everything in our power to correct it."

Government Is Victim.

"The real victim of lynching," the resolution affirmed, "is not so much the person done to death, but, certainly, the government which is disgraced by this crime. This crime is a greater menace to our homes, our children and our country than any other."

"We shall not remain idle," the resolution continued, "indifferent or acquiescent. We shall carry on a campaign of education and action for the prevention of lynching. We shall seek to have brought to justice persons who are participants in this crime." The resolution concluded with a call upon the women of all southern states to join in the movement "to rid the south of a crime which brutalizes our people, mocks our Christianity and destroys our government."

Those attending the women's meeting were Miss Abigail Currier, Decatur; Mrs. Willie Snow Ethridge, Macon; Mrs. Julian Harris, Atlanta; Mrs. Alonzo Park, Lithonia; Mrs. W. A. Turner, Newnan; Mrs. W. T. Morton, Atlanta; Mrs. S. F. Boykin, Atlanta; Mrs. Harry L. Gershon, Atlanta; Mrs. Annie Linton, Athens; Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, Atlanta; Mrs. C. A. Ver Nooy, Athens; and Miss Elizabeth Head, Athens.

Those represented by proxy at the meeting were: Mrs. H. H. Hirsch, Mrs. B. F. Boykin, Mrs. W. Frank Smith, of Atlanta; Mrs. E. B. Harrold, Macon; Mrs. R. E. Lee, Fitzgerald; Mrs. Virlyn Moore, Bolton; Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, Decatur; Mrs. Audley Morton, Athens; Miss Mary Dickinson, Mrs. W. A. Albright and Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, of Atlanta.

Woman's Committee Formed.

The women's meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. A. Turner, of Newnan. In addition to adoption of the resolution condemning lynching, an administrative committee was appointed. Its members were: Mrs. Julian Harris, Macon; Mrs. Martin, Mrs. W. A. Turner, Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, Mrs. W. A. Albright and Mrs. H. H. Hirsch.

At the State Interracial Commission meeting Chief of Police Ben T. Watkins, of Macon, president of the Georgia Association of Sheriffs and Peace Officers, declared that "even the most vigilant enforcement of the law will not prevent lynching." Chief Watkins termed lynching as "the blackest blot smearing across our history, but a crime which practically has been eliminated by the police chief can prevent if he will only work quick enough."

As added precautions against mob law vengeance, the Macon chief said that every jail in the state should be equipped with tear gas bombs and sub-machine guns for use in emergencies. Among the causes of lynchings he mentioned "race prejudice, slow processes of justice, crooked lawyers, political fear and legal loopholes." He recommended that the state enforcement and speedy trials, the education of public opinion, precautionary measures, and fearless prosecution of those guilty of mob violence.

Pulpit Campaign Urged.

The commission adopted a unanimous resolution recommending that every minister in Georgia deliver from his pulpit during 1931 the vigorous test against lynching and other forms of mob violence.

Encouraging factors in the interracial situation pointed out by Dr. Raper, secretary of the commission, included that of the unfavorable public reaction to the "black shirt" movement which resulted in its collapse; the organization of negro Boy Scouts in a number of cities; the improvement here and there of educational facilities for negroes; and the co-operation of the state association of sheriffs and peace officers in the prevention of mob activities.

A depressing picture of effect of present economic conditions upon rural and city negroes was painted by Rev. D. H. Stanton and Professor Forester Washington. They contended that many negroes formerly self-supporting are now out of employment, resulting in marked deterioration in health and increased dependence and delinquency. The great advantage of stabilized employment in the city and of farm ownership in the country was pointed out by these speakers.

"The community must care for its negro members either as self-supporting wage-earners or else in corrective and benevolent institutions," Professor Washington said. "Every advantage."

FORD MOTOR SHOW ATTRACTS CROWDS

The display of the complete line of Ford passenger cars, representative commercial cars and trucks and exhibits showing how they are made have attracted 2,500 people to the Ford show presented by the Atlanta dealers in cooperation with the Atlanta branch of the Ford Motor Company. The show is being held at 452 Peachtree street and will continue through Saturday, being open to the public from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

The show offers an opportunity for the public to see all the Ford car and truck body types at one time in one place.

A feature of the show is the moving picture depicting the manufacture of the Ford from the production of raw materials to the finished car. This picture gives one a comprehensive idea of quantity production and of the extent to which waste and by-products are utilized.

The Fords, resplendent in their various colors and lustrous rustless steel trimmings, attract attention from all. Attendees are kept busy answering questions and explaining the features of the new body types—why it is that rustless steel retains its lustre permanently without polishing, how the double-acting shock absorbers work, how the drivers' seats in closed cars are adjusted, and so on.

By means of a cut-away body and chassis, explanations of features of body construction and mechanical details are made so that the layman can understand them. The body is cut practically in half, revealing the construction of the steel body panels, roof and seats. Portions of the chassis are cut away to disclose moving parts in the transmission, brakes and rear end.

Explanations are further illustrated by special displays of Ford parts, such as rustless steel waterpump, glass, ball and roller bearings, forgings and accessories.

The fact that the interest in the purchase of a Ford is not tentative on this basis, it is regarded as much nearer consummation in view of the announcement of general building plans Wednesday.

ALABAMAN KILLS SELF IN GIRL'S AUTOMOBILE

SHEFFIELD, Ala., Jan. 14.—(AP) Shortly after entering the car of Miss Virginia West on a downtown street, a man identified as V. H. Tubbs, of Jasper, shot himself through the head, dying almost instantly, police reported.

Tubbs asked the girl if he might ride a short distance to his own car, but killed himself as she stopped by his car.

Child Welfare Conference.

The afternoon session of the commission was given over to consideration of the effects of the recent White House child welfare conference in its relation to children of both races, and interesting reports were made by Miss Rhoda Kaufman and others. The sessions were presided over by Dr. Comer Woodward, of Emory University, chairman of the commission; and was attended by a hundred or more men and women from over the state.

The forenoon session of the commission was opened with the invocation of Rev. Dr. L. R. Christie, pastor, Ponce de Leon Baptist church, following which a digest of the minutes of the last annual meeting was read by the secretary, Dr. Woodward announced the various committees.

Among the principal speakers were Professor Washington, director of the Atlanta School of Social Work; Rev. Stanton, promoter of negro boys' clubs in rural communities; John B. Guerry, of Montezuma, and the wife of Dr. H. R. Butler, well-known colored Atlanta physician, who is president of the Negro National Parent-Teachers Association.

ANTI-LYNCH MEETING CALLED IN MISSISSIPPI

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 14.—(UP) Seventy women leaders of Mississippi will meet here January 22 to form plans for an anti-lynching campaign. The call for the meeting resolved that "no longer ought southern women remain silent in the face of crimes condoned in the name of southern womanhood which bring contempt upon the south."

The Commission on Inter-racial Co-operation, in which white women of seven southern states hold membership, is sponsoring the meeting.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR THREAD PLANT

Huge Clark Company Project Believed Close to Consummation.

Completion of construction plans for the huge textile mill to be located in Cobb county, as outlined in communication from J. E. Sistrone & Company, Greenville, engineers in charge, was seen Wednesday as the latest step toward early establishment of the Clark Thread Company's proposed southern branch thread mill.

The construction plans made public for the first time include four mill structures to be erected on the Cobb county site. Of these, the central plant will be three stories high and have a length of nearly 500 feet. It will house the main textile operations and, according to original plans, have a capacity of 40,000 spindles. The other plant buildings are a two-story "open room," a warehouse two stories high and one-story boiler house.

In an announcement made through representatives of the Clark Thread Company about ten days ago it was pointed out that the plant would be located between Powder Springs and Austell in Cobb county, pending satisfactory closing of options on the 1,000-acre site. Indication that progress in this direction has been made, and that an early start on actual construction work would be made, was seen in Wednesday's announcement of the construction plans contained in the engineers' communication.

Steel and Brick Building.

The general description of the type of buildings planned for the Clark Thread Company's southern project, given out by J. E. Sistrone & Company, calls for a structural steel frame with brick curtain walls, three stories high, 133 1/2 feet deep and 498 feet long for the central building. It will have pine sub-flooring and ample top on all floors, and the roof will be pine planks treated with sufficient insulation and tar and gravel roofing.

The warehouse will be of brick and wood, two stories high with three compartments, each 50 by 100 feet. The open room structure will be of the same type as the warehouse in construction and measure 50 by 100 feet. The boiler house will be 45 by 30 feet and will have a fire protection reservoir of concrete with 500,000 gallons capacity.

One of the world's largest concerns manufacturing cotton thread, the Clark Thread Company's southern plant is intended to be one of the main units of the system of mills, which now embraces 300,000 spindles in plants at Newark, East Newark and Bloomfield, N. J.

$1,000,000 Investment.

The Cobb county plant is to represent an investment in excess of $1,000,000 and to employ more than 1,000 workers. The site selected is less than 20 miles from Atlanta and the development is looked upon as one of the most important industrial acquisitions for this section.

John B. Clark, president of the company, has made a number of trips from the Newark headquarters to Atlanta, accompanied by other officials of the company and by executives of the thread company's engineers from Greenville, S. C., since negotiations for the Cobb county site were launched some months ago.

In a recent statement authorized by President Clark it was pointed out that all still is tentative on this establishment of the company's southern plant here and that everything was in readiness pending final consummation of the options on the 1,000 acres of property in Cobb county.

While it is understood that acquisition of the property by the thread company still is tentative on this basis, it is regarded as much nearer consummation in view of the announcement of general building plans Wednesday.

FULTON SCHOOLS WILL GET $180,000

An appropriation of $180,000 for the Fulton county board of education for 1931 was voted Wednesday by the county commission on the recommendation of its finance committee. The school department had requested $240,000 for the year, as compared with $205,000 given by the board for 1930.

The 1931 appropriation was made by the board with the understanding that the county school board will pay teachers 12 months salaries instead of 11. This means elimination of all additional capital investment funds, so that there will be no buildings of any kind built by the school board during 1931, according to Superintendent Jere A. Wells.

South Georgians Make Plea For Lower Rates on Power

Hearing, by Order of Public Service Body, Is Limited to Discussion of Rate Equalization.

South Georgia wholesale power consumers Wednesday presented to the public service commission a plea for uniformity of wholesale rates throughout the territory served by the Georgia Power Company, without opposition from any source.

The commission by formal order limited the hearing to discussion of rate equalization, ruling out a contention of the Municipal Utilities Rate Association, that the whole question of rate schedules should be opened with a view to downward revision. The commission in its order said information in its hands showed that the earnings of power companies were not such as to warrant a material reduction in revenue at this time.

It was admitted by all parties represented at the hearing that equalization of wholesale rates throughout the state, without reduction of revenues to the company, would mean higher rates for certain consumers, notably those in the north Georgia territory of the old Georgia Railway & Power Company, while south Georgia consumers would benefit.

The diversity of rates arose through absorption of the smaller power companies into the Georgia Power Company, and maintenance of their previously established rates in the territories they formerly served.

The commission's order noted that interests represented at the hearing which paid the company approximately $1,000,000 a year for power, agreed that under present economic conditions a valuation of the company's properties and provision of a proper return on that value probably would result in a general upward rate revision.

W. M. Lester, president of the Municipal Utilities Rate Association, took sharp issue with that finding, contending that the earnings of the company were such as would justify general application of rates at least as low as the lowest wholesale schedules now in force. He offered evidence by John Bauer, New York rate expert, on that score, but the commission cut off presentation of the testimony on the ground that it was irrelevant to the issues established by the commission's rule nisi.

At the conclusion of the afternoon session the hearing was indefinitely continued. Chairman James A. Perry said the commission would decide whether further oral evidence and argument shall be heard, after it has received from the power company certain information as to the factors considered in making up rate schedules. He said the commission may find itself able to reach a decision with that information and such briefs and affidavits as may be presented on it.

BUILDING TO SUPPLY JOBS FOR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(P)—Jobs for able bodied veterans, as well as hospitals for their less fortunate comrades, will come from the veterans bureau building program.

Pending projects call for an outlay of $10,540,000 starting in the next three months and the bureau estimated today that 4,100 men will be employed. In calling for bids, it is asking the contractors to give preference to veterans and to local labor. The request is accompanied, however, by a warning that the employment of veterans must not be made the basis for claims of increased construction costs.

MOTHER, SISTER HELD IN MURDER OF GIRL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(P)—The mother and a sister of Beulah Limerick were taken into custody today in the police investigation of the girl's mysterious death.

They were detained after Beulah's chum, Mrs. Martha Bargfrede, had told a coroner's jury she overheard them mention a "gun in the stove" and that Mrs. Limerick had told her to say nothing about it.

Mrs. Limerick denied making such a statement. The sister is Mrs. Julia Bywater.

Beulah, a pretty 19-year-old brunet, was found dead in bed on the morning of December 31 in the house she occupied with her brother in southeast Washington.

Several persons are being held in connection with the death, among them Mrs. Bargfrede and her husband, George Bargfrede, and Robert F. Langdon, a policeman whose beat led past the Limerick home.

and in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, including any part of the marine corps which may be detached for service there with the army. From your command are excepted the military attaches and others of the army who may be on duty directly with our several embassies.

2. You will proceed with your staff to Europe. Upon arrival in Great Britain, France or any other of the countries at war with the imperial German government, you will at once place yourself in communication with the American embassy and through its agency with the authorities of any country to which the forces of the United States may be sent.

3. You are invested with the authority and duties devolved by the law, regulations, orders and customs of the United States upon the commander of an army in the field in time of war and with the authority and duties in like manner devolved upon department commanders in peace and war, including the special authorities and duties assigned to the commander of the Philippine department in so far as the same are applicable to the particular circumstances of your command.

U. S. Forces "Separate." 4. You will establish, after consultation with the French war office, all necessary bases, lines of communication, depots, etc., and make all the incidental arrangements essential to active participation at the front.

5. In military operations against the imperial German government, you are directed to co-operate with the forces of the other countries employed against that enemy; but in doing the underlying idea must be kept in view that the forces of the United States are a separate and distinct component of the combined forces, the identity of which must be preserved. This fundamental rule is subject to such minor exceptions in particular circumstances as your judgment may approve. The decision as to when your command, or any of its parts, is ready for action is confided to you, and you will exercise full discretion in determining the manner of co-operation. But, until the forces of the United States are in your judgment sufficiently strong to warrant operations as an independent command, it is understood that you will co-operate as a component of whatever army you may be assigned to by the French government.

6. You will keep the department fully advised of all that concerns your command, and will communicate your recommendations freely and directly to the department. And in general you are vested with all necessary authority to carry on the war vigorously in harmony with the spirit of these instructions and toward a victorious conclusion.

NEWTON D. BAKER.

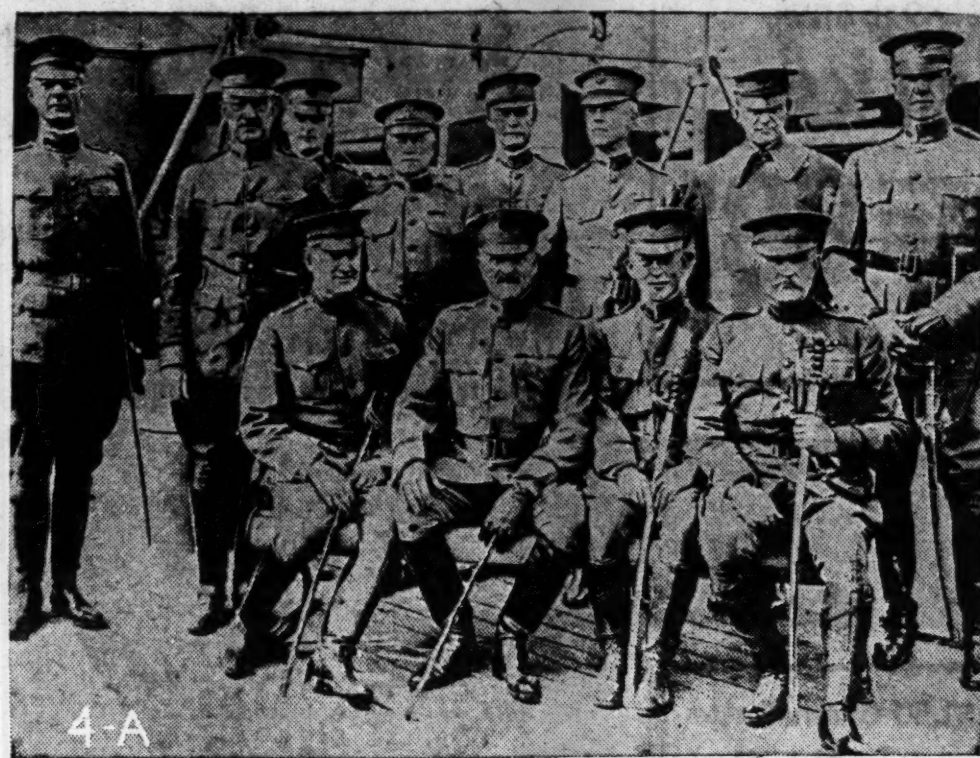

Given Letter Also. At the same time the chief of staff handed me a letter, which is also quoted in full:

In compliance with the orders of the president assigning you to command of the United States forces in France, the secretary of war directs that you proceed, with the necessary staff, to Paris, France, via England.

The secretary of war further directs that, upon your arrival in France, you establish such relations with the French government and the military representatives of the British government now serving in France as will enable you effectively to plan and conduct active operations in conjunction and in co-operation with the French armies operating in France against Germany and her allies.

As a preliminary step, the secretary of war deems it desirable that you have a thorough study made of the available bases, lines of communication and camps of instruction, so that you may direct preparations for the arrival of successive contingents of our troops in France. The equipment and training for active service of the troops under your command in the trenches or on the firing line should be carried on as rapidly as possible. While the entrance of our forces into the theater of active operations will be left entirely to your judgment, it should not be unduly hastened. Yet it is believed that the purpose of your presence in France will be materially advanced by the appearance of our troops upon the firing line.

The secretary of war desires that you keep the department fully advised of all questions of importance concerning the operations of your troops and that you submit your views from time to time upon such questions, as well as upon matters pertaining to the general situation in Europe. He also expects that, as the superior military representative of the United States in France, you will best contribute to the fulfillment of your mission in France.

TASKER H. BLISS, Major General, Acting Chief of Staff. Orders Never Changed. I have never understood why there should have been two letters of instructions emanating from the same authority. However, they are both admirable examples of the powers that should be vested in a commander in the field, and were never changed or amplified in any essential.

The insertion of the directions contained in Paragraph 5 of the secretary's letter regarding the identity of our forces was prompted by the efforts which had been made by both the British and French missions to have the United States utilize her manpower as replacements for the allies. But the policy of eventually building up an independent American army had been discussed and was fully understood by the secretary of war and myself.

As to co-operation, the instructions contained in the letter are apparently in conflict. According to the secretary's letter it might be that our armies would actually serve in conjunction with any of the allied armies. According to the letter of the chief of staff it would be limited to service in co-operation with the French army. However, the general character of our mission was such as to indicate clearly our forces should operate in conjunction with any of the allied armies in France, according to circumstances.

On the date of my sailing May 28, 1917, my party assembled at Governors Island, N. Y. All had been instructed to proceed with the utmost secrecy, even wearing civilian clothes until they were aboard the steamship Baltic.

Although we ourselves stole silently out through the fog and down the bay, the large number of quartermasters and other officers stationed near New York dashing around in uniform rather ostentatiously that day really amounted to an announcement something out of the ordinary was happening.

But it must be said to the credit of the press representatives that they were most discreet, as the papers generally published nothing about us until we were in Europe.

During the voyage most of my time was spent in conference with the staff department regarding their duties and plans. The study of French was taken up by many officers, and classes were in session at all hours.

June 6 the Baltic began to zig-zag and we realized we were in the danger zone. Next morning an escort of two American destroyers accompanied us, and we were really escorted something of a thrill and fully restored confidence. No submarines were observed, however, and the weather was perfect throughout the voyage.

We steamed into Liverpool June 8. A cordial reception awaited us, with a guard of honor from the Royal Welsh Fusiliers. This selection had a sentimental significance in that the regiment not only fought against us at Bunker Hill but fought beside us during the Boxer Rebellion in China. As we stepped off the gangplank the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" to welcome us, thus being the first time in history that an American army ever was received officially in England.

A royal coach attached to a special train took our party to London. At Euston Station we were welcomed by Lord Derby, secretary of state for war; Field Marshal Sir John French, General Lord Brooke, Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador; Admiral William S. Sims and many other British and American officials.

King George Not Optimistic. I was received by King George at Buckingham palace June 9. His majesty was in the uniform of a field marshal and he talked with me in democratic fashion for a few minutes before the other senior members of my staff were presented. He expressed his pleasure that America had come into the war, and dwelt upon the fact that Anglo-Saxon peoples were united at last in a common cause.

"The Anglo-Saxon race must save civilization," he added. "Certainly his majesty did not appear optimistic over the outlook, and asked me numerous questions about America's preparations for war. As to aviation, he had heard through press dispatches the extravagant claims of certain boastful American manufacturers, and he asked me whether we really expected soon to have 50,000 airplanes in the field. I had to acknowledge that such reports were extremely exaggerated and that we would not be sending over any planes for some time.

Hurley Says Lesson Taught By War Blunders Is Not Lost On Present Military Leaders

Editor's Note: General Pershing's clear-cut comments on the United States lack of preparation at the outbreak of the last war prompts Secretary of War Hurley to tell how well the country has learned the danger of unpreparedness and what has been done to prevent the disastrous blunders that occurred in 1917.

BY REX COLLIER. WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley hopes America may never have another war, but if war should come despite the hopes of all lovers of peace, he is determined it shall find the nation's resources of men and material ready for action.

With public attention once more focused on the problem of preparedness as a result of General Pershing's references in his memoirs, now being published in The Atlantic Constitution, to the debacle of unpreparedness presented during the World War, Secretary Hurley in an interview today told of his plan, for averting such a catastrophe in the future.

"Ready for another war?" the secretary repeated in response to a question. "Well, nobody wants another war, but we would be remiss in our official responsibilities if we did not

PATRICK J. HURLEY. consider the possibility of almost any sort of an emergency.

"If such a national emergency should come, the government would not be caught off guard. We have not failed to profit by the lessons we learned in 1917 and 1918. Our plans for mobilization of manpower and of industry were vague and incomplete.

"Tomorrow, a different and a brighter picture would be presented. With the declaration of war by congress, there would spring into immediate action elaborately and carefully conversation made it easy to talk to him. Leaving the palace, we went to our embassy and during an informal talk Mr. Page remarked how happy he was that America was at last in the war, and added:

"Now I am able to hold up my head and look people squarely in the eye." Throughout his service as ambassador he was beloved and honored by the British people, who admired his virile personality, but many Americans did not approve of his rather apologetic attitude toward his own country prior to our entry into the war in aid of the allies.

I had a talk with Admiral Sims, who was not in personal command of our fleet serving with the British navy, but remained in London with an office at our embassy and directed the movements of our naval vessels, especially destroyers, from there. He was not satisfied with the supported given him from home and complained that the navy department had not sent all the destroyers asked for. He said the department seemed to fear attacks along our coast and did not realize the danger to the cause in the enormous destruction of merchant shipping going on in European waters.

The admiral's report of these losses was nothing short of startling, but he thought they might be checked if he could have a sufficient number of destroyers. Without more of this class of vessels, Sims was not sanguine over the prospects of protecting our transports. However, he made it clear that every possible effort would be made to that end.

Without more of this class of vessels, Sims was not sanguine over the prospects of protecting our transports. However, he made it clear that every possible effort would be made to that end.

"The problem is to ascertain where and when the needed things can be manufactured. For years we have been searching out and listing factories suitable for the production of guns, airplanes, and the many other items on our list. We know just where these factories are located, and what they are capable of producing. In our plans we allot to each a certain proportion of the estimated load. In some cases we even have plans showing the detailed alterations that would be involved in converting plants to desired uses.

"But we must go beyond the mere assignment of war-time production tasks to selected manufacturers. To each of these we must assure a constant supply of raw materials, power and labor.

"Investigations of the availability of essential raw materials have been made and plans are being developed to govern the use of those in which there may be a shortage. We are surveying the power and transportation resources of the country and devising plans to insure the most efficient use of both. Labor leaders are assisting us in developing a program designed to assure the fullest co-operation by labor as a whole.

"There was one error in 1917," and here the secretary was unusually emphatic, that we know will not be repeated in a future emergency. When we found ourselves, upon the declaration of war, suddenly faced with the job of accumulating military supplies, port given him from home and complained that the navy department had not sent all the destroyers asked for. He said the department seemed to fear attacks along our coast and did not realize the danger to the cause in the enormous destruction of merchant shipping going on in European waters.

scores of federal purchasing agents, each spending the government's money, started out on a buying campaign, competing among themselves for the products of industry.

"In other words, the government itself, due to a lack of control over its own officials, forced prices up and up and spent many needless millions. In the future each purchasing agent will have a certain group of plants with which to deal, and no other agent will be permitted to interfere with him. Fair treatment to the government and the manufacturer alike are visualized in this program.

"Another point in our industrial program worthy of special note is the plan for controlling our economic resources in emergency. Eminent men in all branches of industry, finance and labor will be brought together to serve in a governmental agency directly responsible to the president for co-ordinating and unifying the industrial effort we must put forth.

"We are particularly pleased that the industrial interests of the country have shown a sympathetic interest in the government's whole industrial program. Their co-operation has been invaluable in formulating the broad and intricate plans which have been worked out or which are in course of preparation. "I intend to concentrate much of my effort while in office on the plans for industrial mobilization. I believe in distributing the burdens of war equitably on our whole people. Every citizen must do his full duty to the nation in its time of need, whether he be assigned to a lathe back home or to serving a cannon at the front. I am determined that so far as war department plans can affect these things this nation shall never again be dependent upon others for vital munitions in war, nor shall war present opportunity to one class of citizens to profit at the expense of others."

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should learn all about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book, "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

$921,000,000 Spent in 1930 For Southern Construction

Figures Do Not Include Work, Running Into Many Millions, Done on Small Jobs.

Construction, engineering and building contracts awarded last year in the 16 southern states had an aggregate valuation of $921,715,000, according to a summary of the south's construction activity during 1930, compiled from reports published in the Daily Construction Bulletin and the construction columns of the Manufacturers Record. This is the highest amount on record, exceeding southern construction contracts awarded in 1929 by $141,000,000 and surpassing by $30,000,000 the previous peak reached in 1926.

The $921,000,000 of awards for southern construction in 1930 is most significant when it is considered that in the Manufacturers Record's summary only those projects are included for which actual figures were available as to the cost. No effort was made to estimate the contract prices of hundreds of varied engineering projects and structures on which no cost figures were announced. Thousands of residential structures, private garages, repairs and additions, involving an expenditure of under $10,000 each—which, in the aggregate, would amount to several hundred million dollars—are not reported in the total compiled by the Manufacturers Record. It may be conservatively estimated, therefore, that inclusion of the foregoing items would bring the contract-award total in the south for last year to more than $1,000,000,000.

1931 Construction Outlook.
A new monthly record for awards was set in December when the total valuation exceeded $68,500,000, compared with a total of $36,300,000 representing construction contracts for the corresponding month of 1929, which had begun to reflect the slowing down of business following the stock market crash. It is also significant that awards for last December were $7,000,000 in excess of the contracts awarded in December, 1928. In each of the last four months of 1930 contract awards were higher than for the corresponding months of 1929. Thus, considering the lettings in the last quarter of 1930 and the large volume of new undertakings, the outlook for a continuation of construction and industrial work in the south during the early months of this year is very bright.

With increased governmental appropriations for highway construction, with the government's effort to speed up public buildings, and with the numerous important projects on which construction has been deferred, together with opportunities to effect savings through decreased cost of materials and increased efficiency of workers, there is assured a formidable construction program for the south in 1931.

Industrial Expansion.
Judging from the heavy volume of contemplated projects and the carefully laid plans for a continuation this year of public improvement work in record and the ambitious expansion programs of nationally known industrial concerns, it is apparent that the south will lead the nation in a revival of industrial and business expansion as it did following the depression of 1921. Through the work accomplished last year, financial and industrial leaders have again demonstrated their faith in the south and have attested their belief in the soundness of the nation's business structure by launching new industrial ventures, undertaking new building enterprises and expansion programs.

Construction of the great natural gas line distribution systems from fields in the southwest and from Mississippi, West Virginia and Kentucky, to distant industrial centers in the south and central west, accounted for $200,000,000 in construction awards last year. While activity in this one class of work is partly responsible for the new high and set last year by construction in the south, it illustrates a further expansion of southern industry, adding to the south's available power and fuel resources. Excluding these important projects, the valuation of construction in the south would show a decline of but 5 per cent from the 1929 total, which indicates that the recession of probably 30 per cent in building and construction work, throughout the country generally, was more severe than in the southern states.

Public improvement bonds marketed last year by the 16 southern states, as reported weekly in the financial news columns of the Manufacturers Record, had a total par value of $490,510,000, which was next to the peak $482,000,000 bond sale record set by the south in 1927. In 1929 the aggregate par value of bonds sold by the south was $331,467,000. Highway bonds in 1930 held first place in value with a total of $195,300,000. In 1929 southern road bond sales amounted to $143,476,000. Next to highway improvement bonds sold last year, miscellaneous public improvements represented a total bond offering of $147,588,000; miscellaneous bond sales in 1929 amounted to $118,078,000.

RUNION'S WHITE WONDER SALVE

"Leaky Trunk" Solon Seeks Chicago Office

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Congressman M. A. Michaelson, who was defeated in November, today announced his candidacy for alderman in the February election. Michaelson was tried and acquitted of violating liquor laws when a trunk belonging to a member of a party which went to the Caribbean islands with him leaked after it had been granted free passage through the customs on the congressman's privilege of expedited entry. The trunk, Michaelson said, belonged to his brother-in-law and he did not know it contained liquor.

ord indicate that upwards of $500,000,000 was expended for new construction, and for maintenance of existing facilities. Based on the work now in sight and proposed, it is believed that the south's highway program in 1931 will aggregate $600,000,000. During 1930 state funds were supplemented by big bond issues by counties, states and districts to finance projects in primary and secondary road systems. Fast-growing communities and rapidly developing residential subdivisions in all parts of the south pushed work in 1930 on paving projects to keep pace with public needs. South Carolina voted its first state highway bond issue of $65,000,000 last year. Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and Arkansas pushed construction on state-owned toll bridges financed out of bond issues voted solely for this purpose. Tennessee is considering a state highway bond issue of $175,000,000. An extra session of the West Virginia legislature authorized the sale of $15,000,000 of state road bonds; an additional $10,000,000 will be sold this year. Last November Louisiana voted $75,000,000 of road and bridge bonds.

Other public work to be undertaken through bond financing includes the erection of courthouses, municipal office buildings, fire stations, municipal airport facilities, port development work—such as piers, warehouses, grain elevators and waterfront terminals—and a wide diversity of other structures.

ALABAMA LEGISLATURE CONFIRMS ELECTIONS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Alabama legislature today canvassed the returns for eight constitutional officers in the general election of November 4 and declared their election.

The returns were canvassed in joint session of the house and senate as the last formality necessary to a change in administration next Monday.

The vote for the eight constitutional officers in which the democratic ticket for some offices faced the first serious opposition in 30 years was announced as follows:
For Governor—R. M. Miller, democrat, 155,034; Hugh A. Locke, independent, 95,742.
For Lieutenant Governor—Hugh D. Merrill, democrat, 154,562; Dempsey P. Powell, independent, 92,570. There was no contest for the other six offices.

The house moved leisurely receiving six more bills and several resolutions, but made no effort toward completing organization and was in adjournment until 11 a.m. Friday, long before the senate which carried on for some time after the joint session.

Opposition to some of Governor Bibb Graves' ad interim appointments delayed in the senate. These went over to the fourth legislative day for consideration and probably will come up Tuesday.

The annual convention opens tomorrow morning with addresses of welcome and response by Leonard P. Reaume, of Detroit, the retiring president.

260 "SPEAKS" FOUND IN CHICAGO LOOP

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Testimony that 260 speakies were found in Chicago's loop was reported before the special grand jury investigating the police department today.

C. A. Harned, an investigator employed by the "secret six" committee of the Chamber of Commerce, named to investigate crime, testified he believed there were 200 to 300 more speakies he could not find.

Ten police officers and detectives have been summoned to testify, presumably in connection with the investigator's statement. They were called yesterday, but their testimony was delayed when it was discovered that funds to continue the grand jury investigation were lacking. An appropriation of $50,000 to carry on the work was asked of the county board.

SOUTHERN GIVEN TWO-YEAR TERM

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 14.—(AP) Sentence of two years in Atlanta federal penitentiary yesterday was given Harold Southern, manager of the Gulf Region Lumber Company, Headland, Ala., who pleaded guilty to using the mails to defraud. He was fined $1,000 on each of four counts. Clarence M. Guillot, secretary and treasurer of the company, pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to a year and a day and fined $250 on each of four counts.

BLEASE TO HEAD CAROLINA COURT

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 14.—(AP) Associate Justice Eugene S. Blease today was elected chief justice of the South Carolina supreme court by the South Carolina general assembly, succeeding Chief Justice R. O. Watts, of Laurens, who died last fall. His home is in Newberry. He was elected an associate justice in 1926.

FRENCH SOLONS FORM FOR BATTLE

PARIS, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Political observers professed today to see a distinct party realignment in the chamber of deputies as a result of yesterday's election of Fernand Bouisson as president of the house for 1931. Parliament was not in session, Premier Strech having warned off until Friday 16 interpellations one of which is concerned with the Oustic bank case and includes a charge that the government tried to block investigation of that scandal.

Ruth Posselt Reaches Atlanta Via Airplane Friday Afternoon

Ruth Posselt, the phenomenal young violinist, who appears here in concert next Saturday, arrives in Atlanta tomorrow by airplane, this modern method of covering distance in the quickest time possible, being necessitated because of the extra concert given last evening in Santa Barbara by this talented artist.

Ruth Posselt appears in concert Saturday afternoon, January 17, at 3:30 o'clock, at Broadlands, the Paces Ferry road residence of Mrs. Hugh Richardson, the reception committee including Mesdames Jesse Draper, Leonard Haas, Hugh Hodgson and Misses May Haverty and Helen Coyne Riley. She is sponsored by the Schubert Memorial Association, and is the winner of the 1929 Schubert Memorial prize. Miss Posselt is under 20, and beside being a brilliant performer, she is unusually pretty and attractive. Her accompanist will be Mrs. Ruby Chalmers, one of Atlanta's most accomplished musicians, whose art has won recognition in musical sections of the south and east. Admission to the concert is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, and the event provides opportunity for Atlantans to hear her play compositions of noted violinists of three centuries.

Mrs. Edward Jacobs Speaks Tomorrow

Under the auspices of the Atlanta Chapter of Senior Hadassah, Mrs. Edward Jacobs, of New York city, national president of Senior Hadassah, will speak from the pulpit of the Ahavath Achim synagogue, corner Washington and Woodward avenue, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. The outstanding social event of the year given by Junior Hadassah was the Junior Frolics which were held recently in the ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel, with Lew Kaufman as master of ceremonies. Misses Rose Cohn and Ruth Esserman told fortunes and Misses Peggy Scarborough and Dorothy Friedman, pupils of the Jane Boyd school of dancing, danced, and were accompanied by Miss Julia Boyd, studio pianist. Misses Helen Seft and Eva Boss were in charge of arrangements.

Excerpts from Charpentier's "Impressions of Italy" will be one of many beautiful compositions to be played by the Columbia symphony during the Voice of Columbia program to be broadcast from 6:30 to 7 o'clock to night over the WGST-Columbia network, including WGST. A representative group of Columbia-Marion McAlfee, soprano; Charlotte Harrison, contralto; Ben Allen, tenor, and Chester Tallman, baritone, will offer songs of Grieg, Bizet and others during the program.

Harold F. Brown, editor of Radio Digest, will talk on "Our Radio of Tomorrow" over the Columbia-WABC Radio Home-Makers' Club at 10:15 a. m. today through WGST. Brown, who has been associated with the magazine since 1922, has made a careful study of the subject of radio programs and believes that they have changed considerably of late.

One of the few American singers ever to broadcast both here and abroad is Aileen Stanley, musical comedy comedienne, who sings a group of bright tunes as Rudy Vallee's guest artist on the Fleischmann Yeast Hour at 7 o'clock tonight over a coast-to-coast NBC network through WSB.

Mollie, whose satirical comedies are living, vital favorites of this day as they were when Louis XIV was his patron, is the reincarnated honor guest of the Arco Birthday party at 8 o'clock tonight over WSB. The musical program, which will accompany the Mollie drama, will be participated in by Rachel Morton, soprano; John Moncrieff, basso cantante; Harold Hansen, tenor; the Rondellier quartet, and the ensemble directed by Ludwig Laurier.

Richard Crooks, who made a trembling debut as choir singer at the age of 10 and who is now universally considered one of the leading American tenors, will sing the songs that made him famous during the Maxwell House Ensemble broadcast tonight. He will be heard over a coast-to-coast NBC network through WSB at 8:30 o'clock.

The occasion will be the first time he has appeared as guest artist on a Maxwell House program, which has brought some of the greatest names in music before the radio audience.

Georgia Boy is Brightest

FROM three to twelve. That's the period which is most important to your child's development. And that's the time many are retarded mentally and physically by constipation.

Watch your child, mother! At the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, headache, biliousness, lack of energy or appetite, give a little California Fig Syrup.

This pure vegetable product cleanses, regulates a child's bowels without discomfort. No danger of forming the laxative habit when California Fig Syrup is used. For it tones and strengthens weak bowels. In colds or children's diseases, employ its gentle aid to keep the system from becoming clogged with germs or waste.

Mothers everywhere are eager to tell of the benefits secured for their children. Mrs. M. Austin, 1443 Fairbanks St., Atlanta, says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Royce for three years in cases of upset, bad breath, coated tongue or constipation. It keeps him the brightest, happiest four-year-old I know!"

Look for the name California when buying. That is on every carton of the genuine, for your protection.

THE TELLTALE FEATHER.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The trifle that you chance to see
May not a trifle prove to be —Farmer Brown's Boy.

What Farmer Brown's Boy means is that little things often prove to be most important things and not to be overlooked or despised. Little things often lead to big things. It was only managed to flop back to this hole and into the water, but that doesn't explain how the second fish got away.

Hello, what is this?

He stooped and picked up a small feather. It was quite a small feather.
It was white with a brown spot on it and it was very soft. A look of suspicion swept over the face of Farmer Brown's Boy and once more he looked carefully all around.

"This feather," said he slowly, "was dropped by some other than Whitey
the Snowy Owl."

He walked toward what he had taken to be the snow-covered end of a log frozen in the ice. When he was close to it it suddenly spread broad wings and seemed to float away. Then Farmer Brown's Boy had a glimpse of a pair of fierce yellow eyes as Whitey flew past him across the river to the other shore. Where he had been sitting, Farmer Brown's Boy found a few small fish scales on the snow. Then he was sure of where that fish had gone and of course he thought the second one had gone in the same way to the same place.

INSURANCE AGENCY REPORTS GOOD YEAR

The year 1933 proved favorable for Georgia agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, according to General Agent Luther E. Allen, who reports that, with the exception of 1929, the volume of new business during 1933 was the largest in the history of the agency, which extends over a period of more than 60 years.

All representatives of the company in Georgia will attend an agency convention at the Piedmont hotel today. Assistant Superintendent of Agents William Ray Chapman, of the home office in Milwaukee, will be present to conduct a large portion of the meeting. A banquet at the Capital City Club in the evening with Robert Strickland, Jr., vice president of the First National bank as principal speaker, will conclude the convention. The Northwestern has more than $40,000,000 of insurance in force in the state of Georgia.

LABOR UNIONS ASK DRY LAW CHANGE

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Miami Herald tomorrow will say the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in session here, has approved the establishment of a committee in Washington, the labor's legislative committee for modification of the Volstead act and that a conference will be held in Washington, February 23 and 24, to plan a campaign for the committee.

William Green, president of the federation, declined to comment to night on the plan.

Purposes of the campaign will be to use legitimate avenues for the development and crystallization of public opinion toward modification, and to stamp out bootlegging, illicit distilling and the manufacture of alcoholic beverages in the home through modification, a spokesman for the committee informed the Herald.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

"You did have the ring then?"

"Of course. But you came mighty close to giving me away, I will say you played up nobly, though."

"Do you mind telling me where you got it?"

"Not in the least. But what's the story?"

"There isn't any story—yet. But I'm no end anxious to find out where that ring came from. It ties up with something I'm working on. It's led me on the wildest sort of goose-chase already, and when you said you'd never heard of it, I thought I was sunk."

In his relief that Lammie and Ryder had told the truth, Peter's spirits skyrocketed upward.

"Well, the gentleman I got it from won't lead you much of a chase, I can promise you; but as to where it came from, that's another matter. Maybe you didn't happen to hear of the case of People versus Callahan?"

"It didn't amount to much, I guess your regular courthouse man covered it. Callahan held up a dance hall and got five years to life for armed robbery. He's just been sent over, since I've been in the hospital. In fact, I was on my way to court the day he was convicted, when I had my smashup and landed here. By the way, you just about saved my life by coming in today. I began to wish my wife had collected my life insurance, after listening to an hour of that love-drivel she was reading. I've always maintained that I was a good fellow, but the last infirmity of feeble minds, but you must have thought I'd succumbed to the strain or had concussion or something when I denied playing poker."

Peter smiled enigmatically. There was no need to tell Fitzgerald what he really had thought.

"I take it you defended Callahan?" he suggested.

"All the defense there was, Clarence Darrow himself couldn't have got him off. He had a criminal record a yard long. But his wife's a decent enough woman—thought he had a job as a nightwatchman somewhere—and she asked me to do what I could for him. There wasn't much in it for me, of course. Somehow burglars and the like never do seem to save up any money. Callahan gave me the key to a safe deposit box he had, and told me to take the contents for a retaining fee. There was a Liberty bond there, but I didn't have the heart to keep it. I turned it back to the wife, like the sofie I am, and when she protested, I told her I'd keep this ring and call it square. It was the only other thing in the box—wrapped up in a piece of chamois skin, all by itself. As a matter of fact, I don't suppose it has much value, or Callahan would have cashed in on it."

"Did he say where he got it?"

The man on the bed winked prodigiously, giving his heavily bandaged head a singularly waggish appearance.

"There are certain delicate questions which an attorney does not ask his client—when that client is a professional crook," he said.

"You don't know how long he'd had it then?" Peter asked.

"I haven't an idea. His case didn't take very long. When they brought out his past record, I advised him to plead guilty and try for leniency. I hadn't any real use for the ring, so I didn't mind losing it in the poker game almost as soon as I got it. What are you after it for?"

"It's really valuable, and are you trying to pin another job on Callahan?"

"Yes, it's valuable," Peter said. "But I somehow didn't expect a professional burglar to have it. However, it's been so long since I got anything I expected that I've ceased expecting it."

"I'll give you a note to Callahan, if you like," Fitzgerald offered. "I've done a few little things for his wife, and he's grateful. Funny, how so many criminals are good to their folks. If it doesn't get him into too much trouble, he must tell you what you want to know."

"Has he ever been mixed up in anything but plain robbery?" Peter asked. "Blackmail, for instance?"

"He hasn't the brains for it. He's a plain stick-up man. You called him a burglar, but as a matter of fact, he almost always works in the open. If he ever broke into a house, it was a last resort, when he was up against it for money."

"Him," Peter mused. "A killer, would you think?"

"Not unless he got panicky. He really isn't a dangerous type at all. In fact, I'd say he was rather mild and timid. It doesn't require much physical courage, you know, to take a bunch of unarmed people by surprise, tell them to hold up their hands, and terrorize them into doing it by flourishing a gun in their faces."

"He wouldn't have been hired as a gunman then?"

"Never in the world!" Fitzgerald assured him.

"Curiouser and curiouser," Peter quoted blithely. "But if he didn't really do the job, he'll be more likely to tell me what he knows about it. I've been having one heck of a time, but the luck's broken at last. Nothing can stop me now!" He thrust a sheet of copy paper and a pencil into Fitzgerald's hands. "You don't mind giving me that note for the guard to take to him, I'll go over to San Quentin."

A few minutes later a nurse dashed hastily around the corner and halted Peter, a warning finger at her lips. For the first time in many days, Peter was whistling.

Peter sat facing the high rail which divided the prison inmates from their visitors. There was a table of voices around him, yet the hubbub created a privacy as real as solitude, for each of the pairs leaning forward close to the barrier from opposite sides was oblivious of all the others.

To each of them the drone of conversation that filled the room was only an indeterminate humming accompanied for the one conversation that mattered—their own.

Peter had already started from the hospital toward the San Quentin ferry when he saw Bessy sharply around and returned to the Herald office instead. He found Andrews in the dark room, developing prints.

"I believe you're going to turn out useful for once," Peter greeted him gaily. "Remember that picture you took of Mortimer on the Hangtown story?"

"Sure I do. Didn't I have to take him in his coffin, because the undertaker wouldn't be persuaded to let me set him up, proper? I should think I would remember. The art department gave me the Dickens for the work they had in dressing it up so that we could run it. After all the work I had getting permission to take it at all!" Peter gazed at the picture of Mortimer in the Hangtown story.

"I wish you'd fix me up a couple of prints—one from your own plate, just as you took it, and another one the way the art department brought it to life. Can I have them in 20 minutes or so?"

"Sure thing you know! There's nothing I like better than being interrupted in the middle of a job, and being asked to hunt up some plates that are close to a month old!"

Andrew's tone had been anything but enthusiastic, and when Peter left him he was still moving wet prints slowly back and forth in a shallow tray of solution—but Peter knew that when he came back the camera man, still grumbling, would hand him the pictures he had asked for.

Emerging from the dark room, Peter strolled over to Lammie's desk. The "D" edition was already out, and Lammie was engaged in nothing more exigent than the drawing of caricatures of various members of the Herald staff on a sheet of paper.

Peter leaned over his shoulder, and under pretense of viewing the drawings, spoke in a low tone, inaudible to the men at the neighboring desks.

"I say, Lammie," he murmured, "you remember that ring you pawned at Izzy's?"

"I'm not likely to forget it. I thought you'd got me into one hell of a jam."

"I thought maybe I had, myself," Peter admitted. "How much did Izzy lend you on it, by the way?"

"Ten bucks."

While his Pa was up in New York sparring for life with the Mean Men of Maul, W. L. Stribling II, the man who will merely have to fight Max Schmeling next summer, was having a grand time hunting on his plantation at Ochlocknee, Ga.

The laity (meaning the folks who lay it in the ticket window when prize fights are held) often wonder why it is that a boxer has a manager—why one man can go out and make a lot of arrangements and sign a contract and then collect a big chunk of what another man earns in the ring.

Ask W. L. if he thinks Pa earns his managerial share. Ask any boxer as for that.

JUST SKYLARKING.

While Pa was feinting and dodging and slashing out verbally with a lawyer as his second, W. L. was down in the fields banging away at doves and partridges. He told The Constitution yesterday he was feeling fine and could think of nothing to worry about.

"It is all right with me where we fight Schmeling and who is promoting the fight, just so we fight," he said. "I can depend on Pa to get the best possible arrangement. They have to get up early in the morning to get ahead of him. If we do not fight until June, I will have a long time to fool around, won't I?"

Stribling said he weighed 195, the ailing ligament in his neck was healed and he really felt like himself for the first time in months. He is going into South Carolina this week on a deer hunt. He will fly up with George Sheeley as pilot.

"I had begun to think that if we didn't hurry up and get that championship match I'd be too old to fight," he concluded laughingly, "but I guess June is not too far off."

WHAT COULD THEY DO?

The news says the New York state boxing commission met and adjourned without taking action on the boxing muddle. My guess is they just couldn't think of anything to do or say.

The New York boxing fathers, you know, declared Schmeling's title vacant and named Jack Sharkey the next in line, thereby driving the next title fight right out of the state.

Now they could suspend Stribling for dealing with Schmeling and with Carnera, both of whom are under the New York ban. But they may be plumb weary of giving foolish boxing decisions in their council chambers.

CAREFUL, JACK.

Jack Sharkey, likewise having run out of something to say, has challenged Jack Dempsey (in return for Dempsey's brickbat tossed through the news the other day) for a fight, proceeds of which would go to charity. One of these days someone is going to take up one of Sharkey's weekly charity offers.

PURSuing THE LAW.

Our Bobby Jones broke in last night as a radio lecturer. As any of us radio lecturers can attest, it is no mild assignment to prepare a talk, practice it over the mike, suffer through the period of delivery and edit the fan mail afterward.

But Bobby is just beginning. George Marshall, a director from Hollywood, will arrive here Friday to confer about making talking pictures of golf, educational in character.

What with occasional magazine articles and pieces for a news syndicate every week, Bobby must feel as if he is a long time getting down to his law practice. Perhaps he simply was not destined to the unhurried pursuit of the law, anyhow. Might as well give up, Robert.

MUST HAVE BEEN THE HEAT.

Signing of Martin Autry, the tall catcher from the Chicago White Sox, by the Crackers recalls an incident of the 1924 campaign when Martin was a Cracker rookie, and the sun was blazing hot in Mobile and Bert Niehoff made an umpire give a decision against Bert's own team.

The Crackers were in the midst of a winning streak trying to overtake Memphis. They were playing in Mobile and it was one of those days when the park by the bay was an inferno. The Crackers were leading by a few runs.

Autry made the last out in the seventh inning, but when the eighth came around the youngster went on up to hit again. Bert had his head in the water cooler and did not notice it. Autry rolled out to the infield and when Bert turned around Ray Francis was up there to bat.

Bert rushed out and called the error to the attention of the umpire. Like a few (?) Southern league umpires have been from time to time, this arbiter was snoring on the job. But he immediately bristled up when Bert began to argue that Autry had batted out of turn.

The umpire could not understand how a manager could insist on a decision adverse to his own club. He did not get it at all. He threatened to put Bert out of the park for insisting that Francis be declared out. With the heat bearing down and all that, a near riot ensued, but Bert finally had his way and took the penalty and probably escaped having the game forfeited.

OUTRIGHT PURCHASE.

The Crackers have bought Autry outright from the Sox, the word is. Chick is a much improved player since those days and is certain to help the club a lot this summer.

The Crackers are just about set. Johnny Dobbs will be in town this week-end to confer with R. J. Spiller over this and that and get business started.

A lively spring season is anticipated with the widely advertised salary cuts due to fall on the just and unjust alike.

Racketeers Fail On This Track 'Job'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 14. (AP)—T. E. Weaver, president of the St. Petersburg Kennel Club, said today he would "let the track rot before selling out to a gang of racketeers."

While Weaver declined to amplify this statement, it was rumored a group of individuals had made him an offer for the track which he turned down.

The track closed following its opening program on the night of December 27.

Big Bill Dropped From Quaker List

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14. (AP)—William T. Tilden II, was dropped from the ranking of the Philadelphia Lawn Tennis Association tonight because he has turned professional. The action was taken at the annual meeting of the organization tonight. Tilden had been ranked No. 1 for years.

First place in the local ranking was given to R. Norris Williams, former captain of the United States Davis cup team.

MALONEY IS AILING.

BOSTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—A severe bronchial attack today forced Jimmy Maloney, Boston conqueror of Primo Carnera, to ask for an indefinite postponement of his battle with Johnny Risio, Cleveland heavyweight, which was scheduled for Jan. 19. Matchmaker Billie Ames tried to put the bout over until February 6 but Risio has signed to engage Max Baer in New York on that date.

Dempsey Flays Sharkey In Reply To Challenge; Golden Breaks Par To Lead Caliente Open; Wade Leaves Alabama To Take Duke Reins

DEMPSEY FLAYS JACK SHARKEY IN HIS ANSWER

"The Trouble With Fight Game Is Sharkey," Mauler Declares.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 14. (UP)—Jack Sharkey's challenge to Jack Dempsey to meet the former heavyweight champion in a charity bout within six weeks was answered in no uncertain terms tonight in a press statement by Dempsey. Dempsey charged the Boston contender "with insincerity because of the six-week clause and promised to give the challenge consideration if it were repeated in good faith."

The revived feud between the two fighters hinges on Dempsey's annual rating of prize fighters for the magazine The Ring, published a few days ago. The article stated that if Dempsey ever returned to the ring he felt there would always be "one man I can lick, and that man is Jack Sharkey."

Sharkey's challenge to a charity bout with Dempsey was made yesterday.

Dempsey's rebuttal tonight follows:

"I note that Jack Sharkey, who has gained considerable publicity as a foul crier and also as a dealer in low blows, is trying to re-establish himself by changing me to fight with the proceeds to go for charity. In his usual cautious way when discussing fights for charity, Sharkey specifies 'within six weeks,' realizing that it is not possible to get in condition in that time. This reminds me of another charity bout when he challenged Bill Stribling to a 'fight for charity' in New York on the exact date when Stribling was to fight in Chicago."

"It does seem strange that Sharkey, who always will fight for charity in bouts which he makes impossible by his own stipulations, never has failed to collect in full for both fair and foul services rendered in charity bouts."

"Sharkey devotes the main portion of his challenge to praising himself because he was in the United States navy. This I presume was done to slur me by redirecting attention to the fact that along with 20,000,000 others had dependents I was not in the war."

CITES REASONS.

Dempsey here cited the reasons he gave for not fighting Sharkey, saying that he was married, was supporting a mother and invalid sister and was exempted by the draft board.

He said he wanted to join the navy in the spring of 1918, but could not be released from his dependencies. In August, 1918, Dempsey said he began negotiations to enter the navy and after delay occasioned by draft board action finally proceeded to Philadelphia under directions to sign up there.

This was in November, 1918. The officer who was to have signed him was delayed in starting for Philadelphia. Dempsey said, and an armistice was signed while the officer was in Ohio en route to him.

NOT HIS STORY.

"As for the article in The Ring," Dempsey continued, "I did not write it; I was not interviewed by the man who did and I did not see it before it was published. The selections were mine, but the comment was not."

"Sharkey challenged me to fight him. If he is really sincere about the challenge, let him repeat it in good faith and I will then give him an answer."

"In reply to what is wrong with the fight game, it is Jack Sharkey of Boston."

New York Board Delays Action.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—The New York state athletic commission entrenched grimly today to play a waiting game against the insubordination that has come out of the signing of the Young Stripling-Max Schmeling heavyweight title match.

The commission satisfied itself today with warning all boxing corporations and promoters of the commission rules forbidding any negotiations with suspended boxers and managers. Madison Square Garden, through its Illinois subsidiary, yesterday signed Schmeling and Stribling to fight in June for the championship despite the suspension of the German last Tuesday and the vacating of his title here.

"The case of Schmeling-Stribling and the Garden is not officially before us," Chairman James A. Farley said. "We will deal with them in our own way at our own time."

Indications were that the commission will make no effort to hamper the Garden and its associate, the New York Herald Tribune Fund, in the staging of the match. The commission has varied disciplinary powers, however, to use in dealing with the Garden and the boxers involved.

The commission suggested that a tournament be staged here among the middleweights to determine a successor to Mickey Walker as champion. Walker's title also was vacated by the commission last week.

Race Horses Move To Hialeah Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 14. (AP)—Horse racing bade farewell to North Florida this afternoon with the closing of an 18-day meet at St. Johns park south of here. Tomorrow the bangtails swing into action at Hialeah, near Miami, for a 45-day season.

Following the Hialeah meet, however, the sport of kings returns to St. Johns park March 9 to continue under a 45-day greyhound racing season tomorrow. Dogs from many sections of the nation are assembled at the Longwood track, where nine race events will be held nightly.

Flays Gob

JACK DEMPSEY. "What's wrong with the fight game? Jack Sharkey," was Jack Dempsey's reply to the question last night. He was asked that while making public his answer to the Gob's challenge for a fight.

MAT CHAMPIONS OF Y ARE NAMED

Four of Six Division Crowns Awarded in Tournament.

After a series of elimination matches, members of the Y. M. C. A. wrestling committee have named champions in the heavyweight, light-heavyweight and bantamweight divisions.

In the heavyweight ranks, George Harbin has been selected. He has waded through all opposition without a defeat.

A. K. Bell has been named as the light-heavyweight champion by virtue of his recent triumphs. He is planning to enter the heavyweight division.

Kid McKoy is the best of the bantams, although several youngsters are ready to give him a real match. In the middleweight division, Roy Crawford has been named champion. He will be matched with the winner of the Jack English-Whitey Patterson match on January 17 for the division title.

George Tatam looks best in the lightweights, but has several challengers who are very much in the running. Tatam was formerly south-western Y. M. C. A. lightweight champion.

Another of the regular weekly elimination tournaments under professional rules will be held on Saturday night, January 17. When that tournament is over, another under the intercollegiate rules will be held.

Page, who has coached at Indiana since 1926, conferred with several of his friends and then mailed his resignation, which is to be effective at the end of the present school year if accepted—his resignation probably will be.

A combination of circumstances caused Page, football mentor at Indiana since 1926, to resign and take a chance on obtaining a berth next fall. The material at Indiana hasn't been exactly to Page's liking or if it has, it has had to compete with the great Hoosier pastime—basketball. The Indiana faculty athletic committee hasn't co-operated enough to suit him, and Page believes he can do better elsewhere.

Foreign Play Counts In Tennis Rankings

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—National tennis rankings in the future will be made on the basis of play abroad as well as at home under a new ruling approved by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The U. S. L. T. A.'s action was interpreted in some quarters as paving the way for the ranking of Big Bill Tilden and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody as this country's No. 1 and No. 2 players.

Tilden played magnificently abroad, winning the Wimbledon title, but failed to appear to advantage when he returned home, losing in the national championship to Andy Doug.

Mrs. Moody was unbeaten in a foreign campaign but did not defend her American title.

The ranking will be submitted for approval at the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. in February.

DOG RACES OPEN.

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 14. (AP)—The Longwood Kennel Club, near here, will open a 45-day greyhound racing season tomorrow. Dogs from many sections of the nation are assembled at the Longwood track, where nine race events will be held nightly.

GOLDEN BREAKS PAR IN TAKING CALIENTE LEAD

Norton Pro Scores 70; Dudley, Dutra Close With 71's.

By Brian Bell,

Associated Press Sports Writer. AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 14. (AP)—Roly-poly John Golden, professional at the Wee Burn Club, Noroton, Conn., came through a Scotch mist which almost amounted to a hard rain today to lead the field in the $25,000 Agua Caliente open golf tournament with a first round score of 70, two strokes under par.

The stolid Golden, who never grows excited no matter what the golf provocation, owed his one stroke lead to a magnificent brassie shot at the home hole. Golden, after a long drive at the 18th, fired his wood secondly 230 yards, the ball coming to rest within two feet of the cup. To hole the little putt was simple.

Tied for second place were Ed Dudley, winner of the Los Angeles open, and Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., one of the most deliberate players in the competition, at 71, each winning by one stroke in the battle with par.

Dudley, whose putting touch returned in Los Angeles, after an unexplained absence, gained his position by great work on the greens. He holed no long putts, but he was down in two or better at each green and placed four birdies on his card. Dudley's round duplicated his first round score in this competition last year, but then it was good enough to lead the field.

Bunched at par 72 stood five players, any one good enough to win the $10,000 first money. Gene Sarazen, last year's winner; Macdonald Smith, the veteran Scot, who is always a threat; Harry Cooper, the fast-tidying Chicago pro; Horton Smith, the young star from Missouri, by way of New York, and Leo Diegel, the home pro, all were good players.

Although Sarazen declared the Agua Caliente course, little more than a year old, was greatly improved, he said he had never played last year and played "far easier" only once was able to meet par on even terms.

Walter Hagen and George Von Elm, the former crack amateur, playing together, had the same score—74, and Jack Forrester and Frank Walsh, who started briefly in the Los Angeles open, could do no better than 77, which also was the count needed by Joe Turnesa, winner of the Miami open.

L. A. Byerly, Portland, Ore., led the amateurs for the first day's play with a 77.

Al Espinosa took 75 blows, two more than his brother, Abe, needed, and Wiffy Cox, Al Watrous and Craig Wood were tied at the same figure. Tommy Armour fell back to 78.

Golden, who would be called fat if he were not a great golfer, for years has been one of the country's winners of golf. The player who has been a member of the last two Ryder cup teams has won only a few important competitions, but his name has been found among the first four or five.

Jimmy Slattery Defeats Levinsky

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. (AP)—Jimmy Slattery, of Boston, former world's light-heavyweight champion, wiped out the weird decision that King Levinsky, of Chicago, was awarded over him two months ago, by decisively defeating the Kingfish in their 10-round battle at the Chicago stadium tonight.

The decision of the two judges and Referee Dave Barry was unanimous and was highly satisfactory to the crowd of 12,000 who paid $36,000 to watch Slattery box his way to victory by a unanimous decision.

Poking his long left hand into Levinsky's sober looking face with the regular boxing pendulum, the Buffalo light-heavyweight was complete master of the wild swinging Kingfish, except, perhaps, in the first round. He continued to pop lefts into Levinsky's nose, keeping him off balance, and moved around so speedily that Levinsky was unable to connect effectively with one of his siege-gun rights.

After Slattery had lathered Levinsky for seven or eight rounds the Chicago boxer sought refuge in clinches and in the tenth round, after his left eye had been out, he hung on continually, while the crowd booed him. Slattery weighed 167 1/2 and Levinsky 182 1/2.

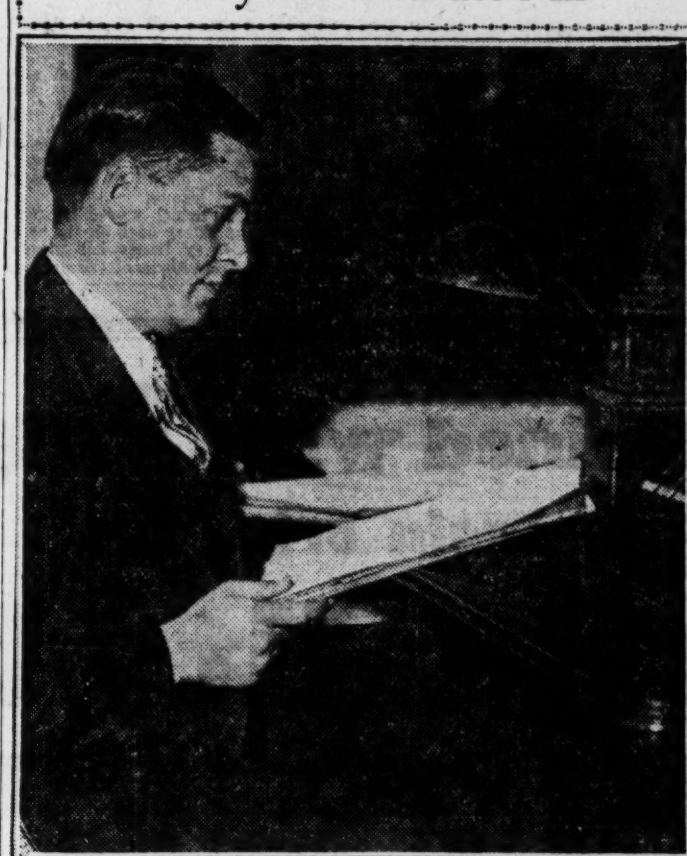

Waycross 'Y' Five Swamps Valdosta

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 14. (AP)—Breaking into the scoring column in the opening minute of the game, the Waycross Y. M. C. A. Red Flashes held a 26-3 verdict at the half and piled up a final score of 42-22 over the Valdosta Athletic Club in their annual basketball battle. The Crimson offensive worked smoothly throughout the encounter.

During the last ten minutes of the game Valdosta chalked up several baskets. Coach Walter Campbell having made a general assortment of substitutions.

CATHOLICS WIN. CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 14. (AP)—The Catholic Men's Association five basketball team defeated the Jewish Educational Alliance basketball team of Savannah, Ga., here tonight in an overtime game, 27-21. At the end of the regulation time the score was knotted, 19-19, but two field goals by Davey quickly put the home team into a lead that was held until the end of the extra five minutes.

Bobby Goes on the Air

More excited perhaps than at any time when he made delicate chip shots with thousands crowded around him on a golf course in a national championship, Bobby Jones, champion golfer, gave the first of his weekly broadcasts over the network of the National Broadcasting Company last night. However, he spoke like a veteran and betrayed no emotion. Bobby is shown above at the microphone in the studio of WSB, in Atlanta, from which the nation-wide broadcast was made.

New Road to Athens In for Heavy Traffic

Big Play Seen Friday and Saturday as Vols, Jackets Meet Bulldog Five.

By Ralph McGill.

THAT NEW ROAD over to the classic city of Athens, Ga., will get quite a play on Friday and Saturday afternoon.

The Georgian and the Holman hotels had best be putting on an extra hand in the kitchen and adding some more vegetables to the soup. There will be some folks dropping in for supper.

The University of Georgia basketball team, coached by that eminent gentleman, Herman Jerome Stegeman, is exciting all this curiosity, all this urge to travel the new road to Athens.

The Georgia Bulldogs trifled with South Carolina, swept through Florida on two successive evenings with regulars out of the lineup, and manhandled North Carolina State Tuesday night.

THE GEORGIANs will rest up for a couple of days and then meet Tennessee on Friday night at Athens. Playing with the Vols will be Bobby Dodd, the wizard quarterback, who will coach the Georgia Tech backfield next season. He is making his farewell appearance in a Tennessee uniform as a member of the basketball five.

There will be many curious ones out from Atlanta traveling the new road on that evening.

And on Saturday the Georgia Tech Jackets will go over to Athens for the first of the three-game series between the two teams.

POOR JACKETS.

The Jackets have been cuffed about considerably this season. After an excellent start on the road during the Christmas holidays the Jackets ran into stormy weather and haven't been able to score out of it yet.

The Jackets fell before the South Carolina five. And the Carolinians have been kicked about by almost everyone they have met.

The Jackets took one right on the old goat from the Atlanta Athletic Club team and then lost to Florida by eight points. It was the same team that a Georgia five had defeated with a patched lineup.

The tournament for the Jackets on Saturday night is as dark as the inside of a motorman's glove. Yet the Jackets think they have a chance.

Ginny Wages, the spark plug, will be back in the lineup, they say. And with Ginny Wages in the lineup the Jackets look very perk indeed and not at all sad, as they have.

Georgia, however, is already one of the tournament favorites. The Bulldogs have gone surging to the finals and the semifinals time after time, only to be nosed out very rudely while under a look at the title. This time the Bulldogs hope to crash through.

Indications are that Kentucky will be back with another good one, as will Alabama and Duke. Maryland and North Carolina also have chances.

But the Georgia Bulldogs look very much better than the others. They are already out in front. They will probably enter the tournament a favorite over the defending champions from Tusculosa.

Yes, sir, there will be quite a lot of traffic that Athens road, especially on Saturday.

That trip can be made in an hour and a half now. Time was when it took a good four hours.

The Georgian and the Holman had best be getting the soup hot. There'll be folks in for supper. It isn't often that a great football team is followed by a great basketball team.

GREAT RECORD CARRIED AWAY BY TIDE MENTOR

"Satisfied With Work," Says Coach, in Bidding Farewell.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 14. (UP)—Coach Wallace Wade, who has taken three Alabama football teams to the west coast without a defeat in the past eight years, said a gracious farewell to his friends at the university here today and departed to assume coaching activities at Duke.

Before graduating from college Wade coached the Brown team, first Rose Bowl competitor, to Pasadena in 1916. Some years later he appeared at the University of Kentucky to take about a coaching job. Officials there let him warming a bench in an ante-room for several days until he became disgusted, went on to Alabama and was given a job.

Four years later Wade's Crimson Tide defeated Washington, 20 to 19, in a Rose Bowl contest. The following year, 1927, Alabama tied Stanford in the same competition, 7 to 7, and the final touch came January 1, 1931, when Tide team, led by one of the most powerful in Dixie history, defeated Washington State College, 24 to 0.

Last winter Wade accepted a contract to coach at Duke University and it isn't recorded that Alabama alumni made any aggressive moves to hold their coach. Wade finished his last year at Alabama with the greatest record in the history of the school, partly resulting from an unusually difficult schedule.

SATISFACTION.

"Few people have had experiences that make it possible for them to understand my feelings as I depart from Alabama," Wade said in his departing statement.

"It is impossible for me to feel other than that I am going away and leaving a big part of myself, inasmuch as I have put into this university the best eight years of my life."

"Although along with others I have not always been satisfied with the results of my efforts, I do have the satisfaction of knowing that I have tried hard, and I believe no man has ever given to any college as much of himself and conscientious effort as I have given to Alabama."

ENJOYED WORK.

"It has been a great privilege to be able to associate for a period with the fine young people of this university. I have enjoyed the contacts which I have had with Alabama athletes. I cannot feel that I am leaving them, for their memories will stay with me."

"There is only one worthwhile record that a coach has. This is the privilege of having put into the world with the finest class of people in America. I should like to acknowledge the help that the co-operative spirit of the faculty has been toward athletes."

"When I wish Alabama well, I am only expressing a selfish desire, for I like to feel I am a small part of Alabama."

Rifle Club Plans Shoot Thursday

First shoulder-to-shoulder match of the Atlanta Rifle Club for the 1931 season will be held Thursday night. This match will be an indoor affair with the .22-caliber rifles; firing will be in all four positions on the N. R. A. target.

Company F of the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard, will furnish the opposition for the first match with the .22-caliber rifles; firing will be in all four positions on the N. R. A. target.

A series of indoor matches is planned by the club for the winter and spring. Matches will be held with other companies of the national guard and various colleges throughout the state.

The team of the Atlanta Rifle Club will be composed of the following men: J. D. Phillips, H. N. Dunaway, J. H. Phillips, A. J. Dunaway and J. S. McDonald. The lineup of the guard team has not been announced.

Irish Eleven Gets Tough Assignment

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 14. (AP)—Notre Dame's football team, undefeated for two straight seasons, will tackle another "suicide" schedule next fall.

The official schedule today revealed that the Rockne Raiders will play return engagements with every opponent of last fall with the exception of the Southern Methodists—a schedule of nine games. Five games will be played on foreign fields with four at home. The team will open against Indiana October 3, and continue with a breathing spell until the season is completed on November 28 against the army.

This is the path the Fighting Irish will travel in their football campaign next fall.

October 3, Indiana at Bloomington; October 10, Northwestern at Soldier field, Chicago; October 17, Drake at South Bend; October 24, Pennsylvania at South Bend; October 31, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh; November 7, Pittsburgh at South Bend; November 14, Navy at Baltimore; November 21, Southern California at South Bend; November 28, Army at New York.

Two Important Grid Coaching Gaps Still Bother, Cameron Finds

NAVY AND PENN NOMINATIONS COME SLOWLY

Shift of Ingram Fills Coast Roster; East Seeks Replacements.

By L. S. Cameron, United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(UP)—Selection of "Navy Bill" Ingram as coach at the University of California filled one of the nation's most important football coaching vacancies, but left another wide gap.

Nominations for a successor to Ingram as head coach of the navy have been slow in coming forward.

It has been learned on unquestioned authority that Ingram was none too happy at Annapolis. While he was genuinely liked and admired both at the academy and by football writers with whom he came in contact, one has been led to believe that there were certain aspects of his position that irked him.

It is interesting in this connection to recall that "Navy Bill" was an

Tech May Stage Dixie Track Meet

With the abandoning of the annual Tech relays for 1931, interest is expected to again be revived in track sports in Atlanta in 1932. It was announced Wednesday that Georgia Tech, through W. A. Alexander, will seek to have the 1932 Southern conference track meet held at Grant field.

The 1931 conference track meet will be held in Birmingham, Ala.

Bird Dogs Score At Holly Springs

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Bird dogs and handlers braved chilling winds today to chalk up some excellent showings in the second day's preliminaries of the United States field trial club all-age stake here.

Among the dogs which did well on game and bid for first place, likely to be decided tomorrow, were:

Woodleigh Roxie, owned by F. B. Hower, Buffalo, N. Y.; Rex Tarheel and Stoney Grove Bonny, pointers owned by C. S. Proctor, Oklahoma City; San Hill Ted, owned by Ross Crenshaw, Independence, Mo.; and Drus Ghost, owned and handled by J. M. Arent, Hickory Valley, Tenn.

Dehnert's Value Lies In Perfect Pivot Play

"Greatest and Highest-Paid Basketeer of Modern Game" is Celtic Captain's Rating.

When the world champion reorganized Celtics play the Jaycees at the auditorium January 23 it will mark the appearance here of the highest paid player in basketball today, a man rated by Collier's Eye as the greatest cager in the game since Nat Holman retired. It is reported that he receives $12,000 a year salary. He is "Dutch" Dehnert, captain of the new Celtic outfit.

Dehnert is undoubtedly the greatest "pivot play" man in basketball. He always gets the tough job of handling the ball on the "pivot play" and in this work has always been a sensation. And this has been no easy job with the introduction of the five-second rule. One of Dehnert's pet tricks is to dive out of the "pivot play" and toss in a basket for his team all by himself.

Dehnert joined the Cleveland club early in the 1928-29 season with Barry and Lapchick. He had been with the Celtic team nine years.

A pleasing personality has made Dehnert one of the most popular players in the whole circuit of the American basketball league.

The transfer which moved Dehnert, Lapchick and Barry back on the same team with Davey Banks has pleased each of these members of the original Celtics. It has placed in the hands of the Red Man Tobacco Company, of Toledo, the greatest cage outfit in the game today.

Student Tickets Are Reduced.

Officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday announced that student tickets to the Jaycees-Celtic basketball game scheduled for Friday night, January 23, at the city auditorium, will be offered at a reduced rate of 50 cents. These tickets will be offered to every high student in the city.

TEETH AND TONSILS.

Dan Howley has asked all members of the Cincinnati Reds to look after their teeth and tonsils this winter.

Artist Shows Boys Real Fishing Start

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 14.—(AP)—When A. A. Mikkelson, commercial artist of Schenectady, N. Y., goes deep-sea fishing, he gets it over with in a hurry—and how!

Passing through Fort Lauderdale on a Florida motor tour, Mikkelson saw a boatload of fishermen ready to shove off for deep water.

Immediately outside the inlet, Mikkelson hooked, fought and brought to gaff an elusive seven-foot snailish pride of Florida waters, just 45 minutes after he left shore.

Mikkelson said it was his first deep-sea fishing experience.

Australian Builds 'Super-Speed' Car

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Norman "Wizard" Smith, racing car builder of Sydney, Australia, is constructing a new super-speed giant of the road in which he declares he will do more than 300 miles an hour.

Smith's car, which when completed will cost something like $75,000, will be powered by a new engine of enormous speed which has been lent him by the British government on condition that he keep all details of its construction secret. It will develop twice the power of the Golden Arrow used by Seagrave.

A feature of the new engine is a super-charger, running at many thousands of revolutions per minute, which keeps the cylinders full of gas even at stupendously high speeds. The engine develops its greatest power at more than double the revolutions of the ordinary airplane engine.

The new car is so shaped that very little wind can get under it, and what little does get there can escape with ease. The top surface is so shaped that the wind pressure will hold the car firmly to the ground instead of giving the upward thrust of airplane design.

Trial performances of this latest road greyhound will be made on the New Zealand track. If they prove satisfactory, Smith intends to take his car to the United States.

Auburn Five Gets Rest for "Exams"

AUBURN, Ala., Jan. 14.—With a record of three victories in as many starts against Southern conference teams, Auburn's hardwood artists will be given only short workouts the remainder of the week as Coach Sam McAllister intends for his proteges to burn some midnight oil and annex a win from their hardest opponent of the season—midterm examinations.

Examinations for the first semester start this week and continue through next Wednesday. No games are scheduled for the Paladins until January 23, when they meet the Georgia Bulldogs in Athens, in the first of a three-game road trip which also carries them to Clemson and Columbia for return tilts with Josh Cody's quietest and the University of South Carolina, so much time can be spent by Captain Ralph Jordan and Co. solving their classroom problems.

In the showings against South Carolina, Clemson and North Carolina State, the McAllister machine has resembled Auburn's brilliant 1928 team very much. The 1928 five lost only two games in 22 starts, both losses to the University of Mississippi by a lone point.

Duke Quintet Off On 3-Game Trip

DURHAM, N. C., Jan. 14.—With the prospect of three games which will tax them to the limit for victories, Duke's cagers are billed for a week-end away from home on a three-day northern tour. Opening Thursday night with Maryland at College Park, the Devils will be anxious to take that Southern conference contest.

On the next evening the Devils will face another hard game when they meet Temple University's quintet at Philadelphia. To end the week's trip the Devils will meet Navy at Annapolis.

Giants Keen Over New Gally Southpaw

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The New York Giants will have 18 pitchers in spring training camp this year and none of the rookies will be watched more closely, perhaps, than James Irving Mooney, from Charlotte, of the South Atlantic league.

Mooney, a southpaw weighing only about 168 pounds, pitched in 28 games and 197 innings last season, granted 188 hits, but struck out 185 men.

TOURNEY POSTPONED.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 14.—(AP) Unfavorable weather caused postponement today of the first round match play of the mid-January golf tournament. Play will be resumed tomorrow.

BULLDOG FIVE IS PREPARING FOR BIG GAMES

Offense Stressed for Tennessee and Tech This Week.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 14.—The Georgia Bulldogs, the basketball team that is leading the Southern conference with four straight victories in a season that has not yet been marred by a loss, today started their preparations for their next test of the season which will come along Friday night when Robert Lee Dodd and the remainder of the University of Tennessee basketball team take the court against the Bulldogs in Athens.

There was little attention paid today to the Bulldog defense, or rather there was less paid to it than has been the case in the past. After their exhibition of Tuesday night, when the Bulldogs held the North Carolina Sta. Wolfpack to a scant 7 field goals during the whole game, there is little need for the Bulldogs to be worrying about their defense. Especially is this true since their offensive, which is three-fifths of the battle, needs a little ciling to get rid of the sore joints it had against the Wolfpack.

Defensively the Bulldogs have probably one of their greatest teams in recent years, or rather it looked that way when they beat the Wolfpack Tuesday. The Staters were hardly able to get through the Bulldog defense, much less toss the ball through the basket when they were near it.

But the offense against the Staters has left the Bulldogs a little something to worry about. They need an offense, and they will need it plenty before they finish their season's games, with some of the conference's strongest teams offering the opposition.

Tennessee will be the next obstacle in the Bulldogs' path this week, and Georgia Tech will follow Tennessee Saturday night to end the week's work for the Bulldogs. If they win both the Tennessee and the Tech games, the Bulldogs will be quite some distance up in the conference standing, since Alabama, co-leader last week, will be idle all of this week.

City Amateur Basketball

In the best game of the year, played on the Y. M. C. A. court, Hannah Baptist and Central Presbyterian battled through three extra periods in a vain effort to break a 14-14 deadlock. The winner would have been rewarded with the right to enter a three-way tie for the lead of the Seawater league. As usual, the Gentry brothers led the attack for the Palmetto boys while Woodward and Matthews starred for Central Presbyterian.

Pop Class, with B. Clegg and Vandegriff playing brilliantly, handed the former paces, Western Heights Baptist, a 20-7 lacing to enter a three-way tie for the lead. Hertlein starred in Clifton's 22-15 win over Pattillo Memorial. Cy Vann and Bill Coker led Vanguard to a 25-15 victory over Boethian Class.

Helen Is Undecided About Wimbledon

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—(AP) Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, women's tennis champion, would like to enter the Wimbledon matches again this year, but "nothing has been decided about it," she said today.

Commenting on a report from London she would play, Mrs. Moody said she was keeping in trim by practice but the tournament was so far away she had not made a decision, although she said she hoped to enter as "it is such a fine place to play."

"I usually decide about two weeks in advance and then hurriedly pack something and dash away," Mrs. Moody said. "I may not know until just before the tournament."

The Wimbledon matches are late in June.

DRAFT ACCEPTED BY ASSOCIATION

Resumption of Relations With Majors Approved by 5-2 Vote.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The American association today advised Commissioner Keneaw M. Landis that it had officially accepted the major league draft proposal with reservations.

The acceptance enables all American association clubs to resume business relations with the major leagues immediately.

Thomas Jefferson Hickey, president of the circuit, said that the clubs voted five to two for acceptance. St. Paul, Milwaukee, Toledo, Columbus and Indianapolis voted for the proposal; Kansas City and Louisville cast negative votes, while Minneapolis, originally aligned with the forces opposed to the draft, did not vote.

The Pacific Coast league, which with the American association and the International league composed the "Big Three" of minor league baseball, recently voted to accept the draft proposal with reservations unsatisfactory to the majors. The International league is expected to vote on the matter within a week or two.

2 POSITIONS STILL BOTHER

Important absentee at the recent gathering of football coaches here, Navy was represented chiefly by the sandy-haired Commander F. C. Reincke.

There can be no doubt that news of Ingram's selection was hailed with joy on the Pacific coast. Aside from the fact that California got a good man to succeed "Nibs" Price, the announced success of a successor to rumors which nominated everyone from Bobby Jones to Ban Johnson as possible choices.

Navy now joins the University of Pennsylvania as an important institution without a head football coach. Consultations, considerations and discussions as to a successor to the ill-starred Lud Wray at Penn go on, but there is nothing definite as yet.

TWO POSSIBILITIES. Wray resigned after some bits of unpleasantness with members of the varsity squad. William Roper, former Princeton coach, has been suggested as Wray's successor. Lou Young, former Penn coach, is another possibility.

Here are some of the colleges at which changes have been made or will be made:

Harvard—Arnold Horwath resigned after five years of moderate success. Eddie Casey succeeds him.

Duke—Jimmy Bellart is through after a highly successful season. Wallace Wade, who coached the undefeated and untied Alabama varsity, succeeds him.

Alabama—Frank Thomas, backfield coach at Georgia, succeeds Wade.

Washington and Lee—Gene Oberst resigns. Jimmy Bellart is his successor.

Virginia—Earl Allen resigns. William

JAYCEE, J. P. C. FIVES BATTLE

City Crown Chase Begins Tonight on Pryor Street Court.

Two of Atlanta's major basketball teams will go into action at 9 o'clock tonight on the Jewish Progressive Club court when the J. P. C. team meets the Junior Chamber of Commerce team. A preliminary game between the Westminster Presbyterians and J. P. C. Reds will be played at 8 o'clock.

It will be the first of a series of games which will determine the city championship for the season.

After a disastrous start, the J. P. C. team has picked up the loose strings and played much better basketball in the last three games. They were defeated by Furman and Mercer by close scores but came back well to beat the Columbus 23, and the Westminster 25, in the last two games.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce team has been improving rapidly since the opening of the season. The team ran up a large score Tuesday night in the Gas Company quintet in the city league. The Junior Chamber is working hard in preparation for a game Friday night, January 23, with the original Celtic, the world's champion basketball team.

Friedland and D. Spielberger, forwards; Fredrickson, center; and H. Spielberger, guards, will start for the J. P. C. while English and Green, forwards; Cook, center, and Morris and Laffey, guards, will carry the Jaycees colors.

It was announced Wednesday night that the admission price to all J. P. C. games has been reduced.

Here's One Coach Who Is Not Worried

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Ossie Solem, another Scandinavian football coach who made good, has a per. agent job at Drake University if he wants it.

Solem, who has coached at Drake for 10 years, winning a .613 percentage of football games.

Roper suggested as his successor. Roper told the varsity coach he had received an offer from Virginia.

Solem—Edison Bupp resigned. Some fifty applications for the position are on file.

Princeton—William Roper resigned after five years. Rodgers will resign as Solem's assistant.

Gleason—Josh Oddy resigned. Lewis Har-bridge, Vanderbilt backfield coach, is expected to succeed him.

Iowa State—Noel Workman resigned after five years of moderate success. Eddie Casey succeeds him.

West Virginia—Ira Errett Rodgers resigned because of poor success. Earle Green succeeds him. Seale, one-time big league baseball player, formerly coached at Virginia, succeeds him.

Mississippi—Chris Clark, former Army star, resigned to play professional football.

Notre Dame—Knut Rukne is expected to stick it out for a while yet.

AMERICUS, Ga., Jan. 14.—Mrs. E. Towson, pioneer Southern Methodist missionary worker, died at a hospital here Wednesday after a long illness.

She was the wife of the Rev. W. E. Towson, who worked with him in Japan 41 years ago. Since then she was much interested in the advancement of Methodism at home and abroad. Toole Suggests Bricks In Road Be Turned Over MACON, Ga., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Mayor Glen Toole sprang another idea Wednesday, suggesting to city aldermen that the bricks in the pavement of the main thoroughfare on the road to Atlanta be turned over.

The top has worn off so that the paving is rough and the mayor said that the other side should be used.

City Engineer Watson Walker, however, counseled that the job would cost more than $6,000, but the mayor still insisted that it would be a good investment.

"It would give work to a lot of men, too," declared the mayor.

The matter will be discussed further next week.

BY TURNER M. HIERNS.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 14.—More than $2,500 in scholarship loans Wednesday afternoon were granted to 17 freshmen students of the Georgia State College of Agriculture by the Atlanta Rotary Educational Foundation.

Two representatives of the foundation, Dr. Willis A. Sutton, president of the board of trustees, and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, and also a board member, personally interviewed each applicant.

The Rotary foundation annually provides these loans for 25 members of the freshmen agricultural class, who were 4-H Club members for at least two years before entering college, and whose records for the first term in college show that they are above the average.

Although money was available for 25, only 17 had the necessary qualifications, and applied for the loans.

At noon, the first of two "stipendials," the first of which was high pressure advertising in every conceivable form—each urging the prospective customer to buy more.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, former beneficiaries of the Rotary Foundation fund, and those who were granted loans, listened to addresses by Dr. Weisiger and Dr. Sutton upon their duties as citizens.

E. A. Lowe, director of personnel, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers.

Mr. Weisiger told of the history of the foundation's educational fund, and said that since its organization about nine years ago, approximately 500 boys and girls had been aided in obtaining their education. 143 of whom were University of Georgia students.

He said that more than $18,000 had been loaned to students, and as a rule they had repaid their debts as they promised. He stated that, at the beginning, the foundation only attempted to help the students over "rough places," but that now they have begun to see that they should branch out and help standards, by urging boys and girls to enter college—not waiting until they entered.

Dr. Sutton outlined what the Rotary Foundation expected of them in their school work. He urged them to utilize their time toward some definite vocation as nearly as possible, and to help themselves socially, physically, and mentally.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, former beneficiaries of the Rotary Foundation fund, and those who were granted loans, listened to addresses by Dr. Weisiger and Dr. Sutton upon their duties as citizens.

There are three principal reasons why we have had prosperity for the past several years: First, we had abundant supplies of natural resources, such as timber, new soil, waterpower, etc.; second, we used the immigrants of a fairly high type who, though penniless when admitted, were citizens of good character who worked hard and brought a new market for our manufacturers; and, third, practically all our people had large families who had to be both fed and clothed—these are the real causes which underlie our unfavorable economic condition.

"As a climax to this, we took two 'stipendials,' the first of which was high pressure advertising in every conceivable form—each urging the prospective customer to buy more."

AIRWAYS OFFICIAL SENT TO ATLANTA

C. E. Fleming Heads Eastern Division; This City Named 'Key' Point.

The growing importance of Atlanta as the "key" city in southern aviation was seen Wednesday with the announcement by American Airways, Inc., that C. E. Fleming, assistant general traffic manager of the company, had been transferred from New York to take charge of the eastern division, with headquarters here.

Mr. Fleming arrived Wednesday afternoon from Dallas, aboard a Southern Transcontinental Airways plane, and this morning will take up his new duties at 601-602 Forsyth building, where joint traffic offices are maintained by American Airways, Inc., and Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

The new Atlanta official is a veteran of the railway mail service, having been in that work for more than 15 years at Kansas City. He was connected with Southwest Air Fast Express at the time of its merger with Robertson Airlines a few months ago, and when all subsidiary companies were consolidated under the name of American Airways, Inc., he was sent to the New York office and placed in charge of all air mail.

In the removal of Mr. Fleming to Atlanta, this city becomes the first "key" point in American Airways, Inc., and Eastern Air Transport, Inc., in the removal of Mr. Fleming to Atlanta, this city becomes the first "key" point in American Airways, Inc., and Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

The "key" financial situation of the Red Cross at the end of 1930, is this, the statement said: "It has an endowment fund and reserve permanently invested of $1,253,790, the income of which only is available for current use."

"It has a disaster fund of $5,000,000 which has been appropriated for this present drought relief of which $1,000,000, has already been expended."

"After providing the budget of $2,226,000 for the work of this fiscal year, the Red Cross holds $1,734,000 devoted to our compelling obligations for continuing service to the disabled ex-service men and women of the World War."

The financial statement after naming other Red Cross funds already allocated to definite needs, said that $4,658,000 remained "to safeguard all the other obligations to which the organization is committed, including immediate response to any other domestic disaster which may occur and the work of the regular program of public health nursing, first aid and life saving, nutrition, home hygiene and care of the sick, Junior Red Cross, and work in the regular army and navy service."

Alfred E. Smith, who had some differences with President Hoover in the World War, had been driven from him on the Red Cross drive for drought relief.

A telegram from him to the Red Cross today said: "Experience leads the American people to look with confidence to the American Red Cross for speedy relief in the time of disaster. The American people therefore should stand behind the Red Cross in their appeal for the necessary funds to continue the work in states suffering from drought."

NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL HANGS SELF IN PRISON

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—One of New York's most spectacular criminals, the notorious John J. (Bum) Rodgers, hanged himself last night while in solitary confinement at Clinton prison, near Plattburgh.

A guard found the body suspended from a rope the prisoner had made from his shirt.

Rodgers, a "four-time loser," virtually sentenced himself to life imprisonment December 3, 1926, when he pleaded guilty to violation of the Sullivan law—carrying weapons illegally. The plea made him a four-time offender, and life sentence was obligatory.

ON FIBRE CO. LAND

SEVIerville, Tenn., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The jury of view, chosen to fix a price on 37,500 acres of timberland in the eastern Tennessee belonging to the Champion Fibre Company, Canton, N. C., reported today it had not agreed.

The large acreage, containing several large scenic mountain peaks, is sought by the state of Tennessee for the Great Smoky Mountains National park.

Scotmen Pull Wool Over Officials' Eyes

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Unemployed aliens are "pulling a fast one" on the government, the immigration board at Ellis Island reported today.

Eighty-three men and women who reported themselves as violators of immigration rules were on the island today awaiting trial on the charges they filed themselves. While they are waiting, they are eating at government expense and not having to work.

In the number are seven Scotsmen.

The authorities reported that many of the self-reported inmates, both men and women, understand the rules and frequently it sometimes takes two months before a trial can be held to clear themselves at the hearings.

Last night there were 371 men and 58 women housed on the island.

RED CROSS LEADER ANSWERS CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Declaring that he welcomed investigation, Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, today issued a financial statement of that organization to disprove charges it had large reserve funds.

His statement came less than an hour after Senator McClellan, democrat, Oklahoma, had charged the Red Cross had as much as $25,000,000 "now available for any purpose."

"The exact financial situation of the Red Cross at the end of 1930, is this," the statement said: "It has an endowment fund and reserve permanently invested of $1,253,790, the income of which only is available for current use."

NAVAL BUILDING WINS APPROVAL

Committee Declines Re- quest for $16,000,000 Gun Cruiser.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The house naval affairs committee voted today to authorize $14,030,000 for construction to augment naval forces that operate on, over and under the sea.

It approved a bill for that amount but declined, by 9 to 7, to endorse Secretary Adams' recommendation that an additional $16,000,000 be spent on a six-inch gun cruiser.

The measure would allow the navy to build a radically different fighting ship—a cruiser to cost $20,780,000 and carry 36 airplanes. Chairman Richard N. Dickstein, for secretary of the committee, said the navy's request for a six-inch gun cruiser was "barely possible" that all future cruiser tonnage will be that class of ship since experts predict it may revolutionize naval warfare.

In addition, the bill would provide for 280 airplanes, 150 to be built out of funds allotted to the ships. Five million dollars is set aside for the purchase of 130. It carries $27,650,000 for a 14-plane airplane carrier, $17,600,000 for four submarines and $3,000,000 for experimentation with Diesel engines.

Besides this construction, the navy is asking an appropriation of $5,300,000 for a destroyer leader and $41,000,000 for 10 destroyers already authorized. Pending legislation would allow $30,000,000 more to modernize three battleships and appropriations will be asked for the $5,000,000 Sunnyside, Cal., air base and about $3,000,000 for the sister ship to the dirigible Akron now under construction.

Written since the navy general board had favored eight-inch gun vessels over the six-inch gun type, the committee felt it was not advisable to authorize construction of the small ship, the United States has allowed 80,000 tons of additional cruisers under the London treaty, he said, and the committee decided it would be "inadvisable to authorize any cruiser tonnage on which landing decks could be employed."

The bill provides that construction of the vessels and planes be completed by the "earliest practicable date." It also provides that "a good chance to pass both houses" this session.

STILL EXPLODES, HOUSE DAMAGED

Explosion of a 50-gallon copper still on the second floor of a two-story frame structure at 456 Simpson street late Tuesday night resulted in a fire which did considerable damage to the house and for a time threatened the entire neighborhood. Investigating officials, who are now at the scene, discovered 250 gallons of mash and a small quantity of whisky on the premises. The still was thought to have been operated by an unidentified negro, who disappeared after reporting the fire to B. S. Mosley, at 465 Simpson street. Mosley summoned the fire department and police. According to neighbors, the negro was the only occupant of the house, which was recently furnished, most of the furniture being in pieces, a wing no evidence of use.
